

LBJ Starts Stumping For Humphrey Ticket

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, after a busy weekend of ripping into Republican Richard M. Nixon as a man of the past, says he is going all out this week to help elect Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey president.

Backing the Democratic slate before an audience of New York's polyglot population Sunday, Johnson said:

"I hope between tonight and next Sunday night all of you will do what I am going to do, everything that I can to see that Hubert Humphrey and Edmund Muskie are elected on Nov. 5."

If the weekend presidential performance was any gauge, the president will be on the campaign trail in several states and on the airwaves.

TV Special

But the White House wasn't confirming—or ruling out—anything in the way of specific plans, other than a speech on NBC television next Sunday.

Newsmen, trailing Johnson to three states Saturday and Sunday got the idea, though, that it was going to be a busy week of politicking, perhaps with quick calls in some key states and another spot or two on the networks.

Meanwhile, in Akron, Ohio, Hubert H. Humphrey opened the final week of his campaign today with a charge that Republican Richard M. Nixon advocates "an increasing militarization of American life and American foreign policy."

To begin his stretch-drive for the presidency, the increasingly optimistic Democratic candidate led his forces into Ohio—a state rich with electoral votes but one which many surveys indicate as Nixon country.

But the vice president, appearing on television Sunday, said private surveys show he has better than a 50-50 chance to win in Ohio and he added:

Direction

"You know we do not get these surveys to please us. We get these voter surveys and polls to give us some sense of direction . . . I believe the trends indicate we are on the move and one of the sure things in politics that's vital and important is what is the trend as you move to Election Day. And I believe the trend is absolutely in our favor."

Humphrey, in remarks prepared for a rally in this tire-making center, turned his fire once again on Nixon's assertion that the Johnson and Kennedy administrations had permitted a security gap which Nixon would correct as president.

Humphrey charged that his Republican opponent is playing fast and loose with our national security.

Humphrey accused Nixon of "urging a mad escalation of the nuclear arms race. And he is advocating an increasing militarization of American life and American foreign policy."

Humphrey said that the figures his opponent has used on American arms strength are "phony and his facts are wrong."

'Real' Nixon

Humphrey said that the "real Nixon" is emerging in these final days of the campaign and he declared:

"So batten down the hatches—for the most desperate and cynical display of political irresponsibility ever seen in America. That's the real Nixon—and that's the Nixon we're going to beat next Tuesday."

Since the President said he would be voting next week in Johnson City, he might take the opportunity for some home-state stumping in Texas—a spot with 34 important electoral votes which Humphrey forces rate a tossup.

Johnson already has got in some political licks for Humphrey there. And over the weekend he hit not only New York but also some of the cities and hootin' hollows of West Virginia and Kentucky.

Nixon Defends Agnew; Raps White House Staff

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, appearing suddenly embattled in the final week of his presidential campaign, is defending running mate Spiro T. Agnew against conflict-of-interest charges.

Nixon, making his first network television interview appearance in two years, also suggested directly Sunday night that "people within the White House staff"—but not President Johnson—are trying to achieve a Vietnam bombing halt in an 11th hour effort to boost the candidacy of Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey. He did this in trying to explain an earlier public statement that stirred controversy.

The defensive stance of the GOP candidate, generally regarded as the frontrunner in the campaign, was further underscored by public statements from two top aides attacking a national public opinion poll that, it was suggested, will soon indicate a Humphrey spurt.

Nixon planned to meet today in Albany with New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and the state's county Republican chairmen. He also held a rally on the capitol steps before flying to Pittsburgh for an appearance there.

In remarks in Albany, Nixon called for not only his own election but for "clear mandate" to show the world that America was once again strong and unified.

Nixon was questioned about Agnew's past business dealings on "Face the Nation" on CBS.

Gutter Politics
Asked to comment on an editorial Saturday in The New York Times accusing Agnew of "clear and repeated conflicts of interest" and controversial real estate deals, Nixon said:

"This is the lowest kind of gutter politics that a great newspaper could possibly engage in. It is not news that's fit to print . . ."

Agnew, campaigning in San Francisco, had no comment Sunday night.

Contending that the charges against the Republican vice presidential candidate were stale and had been answered two years ago, Nixon said, "A retraction will be demanded of the Times legally" today. He said he was sure any retraction would be printed "back with the corset ads or the classifieds toward the end of the week when nobody will pay any attention."

The Times, in its news pages, subsequently printed a comment by John B. Oakes, editorial page chief:

"The editorial . . . was a moderately worded expression of some of the reasons for the Times' belief that Mr. Agnew is indeed unfit to be vice president of the United States."

"Amidst all his verbal denunciation Mr. Nixon denies no statement of fact in the editorial except a detail on which he is quite imprecise. As soon as we know exactly which one of Mr. Agnew's conflicts of interest it is that Mr. Nixon challenges we will of course reinvestigate. If any statement of ours should prove to be in error, we will say so on the editorial page."

The Times editorial questioned the propriety of Agnew's role, as governor of Maryland, in serving as a director of the Chesapeake National Bank of Towson, Md., an association which it said "involved clear and repeated conflicts of interest."

It further alleged:

" . . . as a zoning board member, as chief executive of Baltimore County and as governor of Maryland, Mr. Agnew has been the political ally and financial partner of a group of wealthy land speculators. These businessmen have made sizable fortunes out of developing land in suburban Baltimore over the past 15 years, in part because of favorable zoning and government decisions, and Mr. Agnew's financial net worth has also risen sharply."

Costly Fire in Rosendale Under 2-Way Investigation

By WALTER S. CLARK

Investigation of a costly fire that roared through the three-story frame Eastland Apartments on Route 213 at Binnewater Road in the Village of Rosendale, is being conducted by Kingston State Police and fire officials.

Firefighters from four area departments, Sunday, waged a losing battle as the flames swept from the cellar up through the roof, which collapsed and dropped burning embers to the third floor rooms that were destroyed.

Fire Chief Albert Morelli of Rosendale, who directed between 60 and 70 volunteers from the local units and Tillson, Bloomington and High Falls at the scene, said when firemen arrived in response to the first alarm sounded at 8:07 a.m. two fires were found in separate areas of the building formerly occupied as the Mountain View House.

Chief Morelli said an unidentified elderly man was the first to discover the fire shortly after 8 a.m. He hurried to the nearby home of Robert Overton, a Rosendale volunteer fireman, and notified him of the blaze. Overton had his wife summon fire units by telephone and he ran to the burning building and entered with the intention of arousing occupants.

It was later learned that six college students from State University College at New Paltz and Ulster County Community College, who occupied apartments in the building since Sept. 8, were away at the time the fires erupted.

Morelli reported that when the fire units of firefighters arrived the apartment house was belching fire from the cellar windows and the roof.

Assistance Summoned

Through mutual aid Morelli summoned assistance from the three other departments, and Binnewater Fire Company was dispatched to standby at the Rosendale firehouse. Officials said the flames shot up through the frame structure with great rapidity.

The cellar and the upper part of the building appeared as roaring infernos. Morelli noted that he and other firemen were standing on ladders when the roof collapsed with a roaring blast and sparks and burning embers showered the firefighters, but no one was reported burned or injured.

Trooper Craig Bremer from Kingston station and other uniformed troopers went to the scene to work with the fire officials on the investigation in an effort to determine the cause of the fire. Morelli said the original blaze apparently erupted in the cellar and he theorized the fire had been raging for some time before it was discovered and reported.

Officials said an ample supply of water was available as firemen pumped from nearby hydrants.

The flames raced uncontrolled for some time before the effort of the volunteers succeeded in checking the spread of the fire.

Morelli and troopers who investigated said it is possible that an overheated heating system caused the fire. They said the flames apparently overpowered the two chimneys extending the fire to the roof.

All Belongings Lost

The fire chief said the building had been acquired last November by the present owner, Joseph Ronald Eastland, who had been renovating the structure for use as apartments. The six students told Morelli late yesterday they had lost all of their personal belongings including televisions, stereo, clothing and other articles.

The Rat Problem Clarified in 4th

By HUGH REYNOLDS

The aldermanic campaign in the new Fourth Ward heated up today as the Democratic contender accused her Republican opponent of issuing misleading statements and taking undue credit concerning the ward's proposed rat control program.

Peter C. Fisher, Republican candidate issued a statement last Friday that the old Tenth Ward, of which he is alderman, would be the recipient of $3,700 from the state for a rat control program. The old Tenth has been combined with the old First (Mrs. Ludlow's Ward) to form the new Fourth Ward.

Substantiates Contention
Mrs. Ludlow said today that the money had been applied for by the County Health Department (not Fisher) to be used at its discretion and that it was not necessarily earmarked for the Tenth Ward.

Mrs. Ludlow said Fisher was taking credit for something he had "nothing to do with" and that Fisher was giving the impression that the Tenth Ward was "infested with rats."

Harry Edinger of the County Health Department was interviewed by The Freeman on the controversy, clarifying the issue and substantiating contentions of both candidates.

Edinger said that the county Board of Health had applied for the rat control funds in March and that due to state mandates most of the money would be going for the old Tenth Ward.

Edinger said the County had applied for $42,000 but had been granted only $3,700 for its pilot program in the Tenth Ward. He said that half of the state funds were earmarked for New York City, and most of the rest for Model City programs and the state's larger cities, leaving little for such rural sections as Ulster County.

Option Narrowed
The state further narrowed the county's options on spending the money by mandating that funds could only be used in an area that had a code enforcement program or had plans for one within four months from the time of application.

The state further mandated that the county board of health had to specify a section within that code enforcement area for its rat control program. Thus, Kingston's Tenth Ward will be getting the $3,700.

Edinger said that $700 of the money would be used for rat poisoning and the rest for the removal of rat harborages. Edinger said that the contracts were received this morning from the State Health Department and had been approved. He added that his department expects to start work on the program in the immediate future.

Wallace Calls Pollsters 'Liars'

By REX THOMAS

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Third-party candidate George C. Wallace goes into the closing week of the presidential campaign talking like a winner and belittling the polls which show him losing ground.

Wallace says he will be elected; that the polls are "liars . . . trying to rig the election;" that they have been wrong before and are wrong again.

After the returns have been counted Nov. 5, he says, "we're going to put some of the polling outfits out of business."

The former Alabama governor's campaign juices have been bubbling furiously since a crowd of about 17,000 greeted him with a 15-minute standing ovation Thursday night at Madison Square Garden in New York. It was the highlight of an intensive and hectic week of campaigning, mostly in the industrial East and Midwest.

His visibly buoyant spirits were uplifted again by a turnout of more than 10,000 shouting followers Saturday in Cincinnati. They had waited for him almost two hours because he was late in arriving.

"Does that look like my campaign is sagging?" he grinned. A national poll released Sunday gave Wallace 15 per cent of the vote, a drop of 5 points.

Wallace returned home for a weekend rest before starting today on the homestretch drive. His itinerary, still uncertain beyond Thursday, will take him back into Missouri, Texas, Oklahoma, Michigan, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Virginia.

Paradoxically, he says it is those who like him the least who are helping him the most—the yelling, sometimes egg-and-rock throwing college students who disrupt his campaign rallies.

They have become almost a part of the routine as the string band which travels with him across the nation or the Taylor Sisters, Mona and Lisa, whose rendition of "Are You for Wallace?" sung to the tune of "Are You from Dixie?" brings him on stage.

Wallace denounces the hecklers as "anarchists" and "the kind of people folks in this country are sick and tired of." He says they "get me a million votes every time they show up."

Alternately, the controversial Southerner—who insists his third party movement is national, not sectional—taunts Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic nominee, as "a man anybody can beat," and of the race.

Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon as one who "says one thing in one part of the country and another thing somewhere else."

He has sought to make a major campaign issue out of Nixon's unwillingness to take part in a televised debate. To dramatize it, he offered to step aside and let Nixon and Humphrey debate each other, and then to buy television time to answer them.

To Southern voters who might support the GOP candidate, Wallace has made this challenge:

"You show me one good thing al, not sectional—taunts Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic nominee, as "a man anybody can beat," and of the race."

Political Special Tuesday

Tomorrow's edition of The Freeman will contain a 28-page political supplement featuring the candidates for congress, assembly, state senate, sheriff and aldermen. The supplement will also have a story on the board of elections, a complete ballot and a listing of the county's 131 polling places.

Name Baby Lucinda

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson's 3-day old granddaughter is named Lucinda Desha Robb. His elder daughter, Lynda Bird, 24, settled on a name for her daughter after telephoning her husband, Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb in Vietnam, for final consultation. The name Lucinda is a combination of the names of Lynda and her sister, Luci Nugent.

Desha was taken from the Johnson family tree, going back to an early prominent Kentucky pioneer.

Albany Priests Want Voice

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A group of 41 Roman Catholic priests and laymen say they want a voice in the selection of the next bishop of the 15-county Diocese of Albany.

The office currently is filled by the Most Rev. William A. Scully, who has been hospitalized for some time. Bishop Scully is nearing 75, the age recommended by Pope Paul VI for retirement. The Most Rev. Edward J. Maginn, apostolic administrator of the 400,000-member diocese, is 72.

Two Viet Papers Closed

SAIGON (AP) — One Vietnamese newspaper was closed today and another was ordered to suspend publication for three days.

Song Moi, or New Life, a Vietnamese-language paper with a circulation of about 8,000, lost its publishing license because it printed an editorial Saturday that officials said "distorted President Thieu's position on the bombing halt."

The other paper, Tieng Noi Dan Toc, was suspended for three days for publishing a picture of Ho Chi Minh, the president of North Vietnam. The picture was accompanied by an article urging Ho to end the war.

Homemade Paris Bombs

PARIS (UPI)—Homemade bombs exploded today in front of three buildings owned by the Citroen Automobile Co. No one was injured but there was considerable damage.

It was thought the attacks might be in protest against the announcement last week that Citroen and Fiat of Italy had signed an agreement linking the firms. Some French think the Italian firm is seeking control of Citroen, and workers have expressed fears that their jobs aren't safe.

Ball Envisions Break

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UPI) — George Ball, former United Nations ambassador, said Sunday a breakthrough in the Vietnam peace negotiations could come before the elections next week.

Ball said his opinion was not based on any particular inside information, "but I have watched this thing for seven years."

"The President is trying very hard," Ball said. "A host of things have fallen into place that haven't before."

'Good Leads' In Gallo Case

By WALTER S. CLARK
Several "good leads" were being pursued today by key state police BCI investigators from Troop F headquarters at Middletown and Kingston in the investigation of the murder of Robert Daniel Gallo, 23, of East Kingston.

Troopers Charge Man on Obscene Telephone Calls

A 37-year-old Poughkeepsie man was arrested by Fishkill State Troopers Sunday night in a police trap to capture a man who authorities said had been making offensive telephone calls to a Beacon woman for more than a year.

The man, Richard Simmons, who gave his address as Roosevelt Avenue, Poughkeepsie, was arrested by troopers who had set up a meeting between the man and the woman he is accused of calling.

Troopers said the name of the woman could not be released. They said she agreed to meet the man Sunday at an undisclosed location. State Police BCI investigator Harold Turner hid in the back seat of her car at the meeting, they said.

Troopers said the arrest ended an extensive investigation by State Police and New York Telephone Company officials.

Simmons pleaded guilty to the charges.

Brooklyn, New York City and Long Island areas, but the eight-day extensive search for the alleged killer or killers has turned up nothing definite that might indicate an early solution to the slaying.

Fund Now $315
The East Kingston Rod and Gun Club, Inc., which launched a reward fund for the apprehension and conviction of the persons involved in the slaying, reported today through its vice president, Francis Costa, that the fund now totals $315 and contributions are still being solicited.

High State Police officials from Middletown are in direct charge of the investigation, with Senior BCI Investigators Edward Shannon and Charles Teelon of Kingston, conducting the local inquiry.

Gallo met his untimely death on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 20, while he was hunting in an area not far from his home in East Kingston where he resided with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Gallo. The victim had been shot three times, twice in the back of the head and a third bullet entered through his right arm pit.

Authorities said Gallo went hunting with his brother-in-law, and two birds were taken. Later the two returned home, but Gallo went back hunting until dinner. After eating the noon meal, he returned alone to the hunting area, and he had not walked far before he was fatally shot and left dying.

A search party discovered the body the next morning, and the massive investigation got underway.

Raids in Dutchess Hit Core on Heroin

By SHANE CROSBY

Drug and gambling raids over the weekend in Poughkeepsie led city and state law enforcement authorities to "the very core of the heroin traffic" in that Dutchess County city, police said.

The raids were said to be the largest ever in the city.

The raids, carried out from Saturday night through Sunday morning, resulted in the arrest of 19 persons on drug and related charges and the confiscation of "a quantity of heroin and marijuana."

Working throughout the early Sunday morning hours, Poughkeepsie police, State Troopers from Fishkill and representatives of the District Attorney's Office entered two apartments in the city and the "Soul Brothers Social Club" on Main Street, they said.

They confiscated a quantity of heroin and marijuana as well as "narcotic implements." First Assistant DA Al Rosenblatt said the raids "hit the very core of heroin traffic in the city and that efforts of area law enforcement organizations will continue" through trial and conviction.

More Frequent Efforts
He said that in the future, "combined agency efforts will be more frequent."

The investigation was led by Poughkeepsie Police Chief John L. Martin, Detective Lieutenant John Brophy, State Police Lieutenant John Odell and Rosenblatt.

Investigators were aided by 12 State Police BCI officers, seven city detectives and 14 uniformed policemen and troopers, authorities said.

Ten of the persons were taken from the Soul Brothers Club and charged with maintaining a criminal nuisance containing gambling facilities, of narcotics implements, liquor and dangerous drugs.

The 19 faced arraignment today in Poughkeepsie City Court.

One Felony Charge

One of the 19 taken, only Horace Lee Woods, 20, of Poughkeepsie was charged with a felony. He was accused of first degree criminal possession of dangerous drugs, possession possession of a dangerous weapon and resisting arrest. Various charges, including misdemeanor possession of drugs, unlawful gambling, criminal nuisances and loitering were lodged against the others taken in the raids.

The district attorney's office said that grand jury action will be called for in connection with the arrests.

Paltz Nimrod Wounded, Thought Boots Rabbit

An 18-year-old student at State University College at New Paltz was wounded Sunday afternoon when another hunter mistook one of his boots for a rabbit and fired his .22 caliber pistol, according to Highland State Police.

In another Sunday accident involving a weapon, a 20-year-old youth was wounded when his .22 caliber rifle discharged as he slipped down an embankment in a quarry at Milton.

A report of State Police Sergeant Stanley Kowalik noted that Larry H. Schultz, a student whose home is in Oakdale, L.I., was wounded on the upper right leg when hit by a .22 caliber bullet. Troopers said Jody E. Sacks, 24, of Huguenot Apartments, New Paltz, reportedly fired his pistol at what he thought was a rabbit but the object was one of Schultz' boots.

Trooper Brian O'Connor said Schultz was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment. The shooting incident occurred on the Irving Kauder farm in New Paltz, authorities said.

In the other accident, troopers said, Donald Cochran, 20, of Milton, was hunting in the

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas—If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss... and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss... but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If they believe that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped without obligation.

'68 Strangest One Yet

No Easy Life for the Pollsters

NEW YORK (UPI)—Turbulent... volatile... unfathomable—beset with uncertainties... variables... surprise elements... a new ballgame. That's what 1968 is made of if you're a public opinion pollster.

"Those are not just hedge words," said pollster Louis Harris, when queried why so many of them are flying about in the press. "This has probably been the strangest political year of modern history. More unforeseen events than certainly since 1932. Much more than 1948."

Could it be a squeaker? A win by a whisker? "It could be that—or it could be a landslide for Nixon," said pollster Albert E. Sindlinger. "I've never seen anything like this. As of today, either one (Hubert H. Humphrey or Richard M. Nixon) could win this election."

You think you've got troubles coping? Consider the Pollsters.

Pollsters Accused
They are being called liars and riggers by George C. Wallace. This is an old charge. Two decades ago, in the final week of his give-em-hell campaign, Harry S. Truman wanted to know just who takes care of the pollster's tally while the pollster's busy taking polls. He accused the GOP of rigging results to discourage Truman voters.

Over the pollsters' heads now—20 years later—hangs the specter of 1948. It is generally conceded there is a greater chance to be wrong this year than at any time since then. But the pollsters seem confident they'll be right.

The pollsters have vastly improved their methods since 1948. For one thing, they are polling right up to election time. They are rather split in opinion on whether the public considers the No. 1 issue to be Vietnam or law and order. They are agreed on the one big factor this year: watch Wallace! the third party man's vote has been imponderable.

Wallace Vote Crucial
Samuel Lubell, a long time political analyst with a doorbell-ringing technique who is reporting to newspapers but making no result prediction, says flatly the big question is how much of the Wallace vote will break from him and which way will it go. He also says it always has been implied that polling "is a much more precise instrument than it really is."

The pickle of the pollster and the last-minute decisions—and what kind of a year has it been?—is put thus by Oliver

Quayle, whose company does mostly private political polling: "None of the candidates has zinged the public yet. Our polls don't show any raging enthusiasm for Nixon or Humphrey—and show bitter divisiveness for Wallace: either you hate his guts or you love him."

"It's simply been difficult this year. Everybody agrees 1968 has been volatile, with great upheaval in events—the King and Kennedy tragedies, President Johnson's withdrawal, Rockefeller in and out, Romney ditto, McCarthy's surprise showing, and not just a plain, everyday convention in Chicago but a cun-cho fight on Michigan Ave. and Mayor Daley with fingers pointed at him."

"And with the events, people have moved back and forth. You get last-minute change and when you get it, it's tough to poll. Anything can happen."

Late Change

It was a late change by Gallup that brought forth the general charge of "liars" against pollsters by Wallace. The latest Gallup poll, published Sunday, had Humphrey gaining 5 percentage points and Wallace losing 5. This change took place between a survey ending Oct. 12 and one ending Oct. 21.

Gallup in an interview in U.S. News & World Report said he would not rule out the possibility of a Humphrey win Truman-style: "We find that a good many of the undecided voters are Democrats, and that many of them are coming back into the party fold, just as they did for Truman in 1948."

However, Nixon has ridden at a solid 44 or 43 points in every Gallup survey since early September.

Gallup and Harris are the two most widely published national political polls. Even when Gallup was showing Republican Nixon with a kingsize 15 percentage point lead over Vice President Humphrey earlier this month, the Gallup poll editor, John Davies, was saying that anything could happen.

"We would say our chances for error this year are greater than any time since 1948," Davis said last week in an interview.

It would seem probable that the winner of Nov. 5 is going to get fewer than half the votes cast. Truman in his come-from-behind victory in 1948 got 50 per cent of the vote total, loser Dewey got 45.6.

As of today, Gallup, Harris, and Sindlinger, in that order, show front-runner Nixon with 44, 40, or 38.8 per cent; Humphrey with 36, 35, or 32.9; Wallace with 15, 18, or 11.1.

As someone has said, a good mandate nowadays is hard to find.

NIXON: Escalation of the Drive

NEW YORK (AP)—Richard M. Nixon is escalating his oratory and retracing his route through the major electoral vote states in the final eight days of the Republican campaign for the White House.

He is running harder than before, covering more ground, making more speeches, purchasing more television time.

There is in this a hint of GOP concern at the shape of the public opinion polls, which show Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey narrowing the Nixon lead.

But Nixon's strategists say they expected the big margin to be cut and the current pace is part of a master plan shaped 10 weeks ago.

This Is the Blitz
"This is the blitz," said one top Nixon adviser. "This is the way we planned it."

And the planning has been meticulous. Sunday, for example, preparing for his appearance on the CBS television program "Face the Nation," Nixon studied 35 questions—and suggested answers—prepared by his staff as likely to come up during the interview.

The Republican nominee, who had shunned the television interviews earlier in the campaign, also plans to appear next Sunday on the NBC-TV program "Meet the Press."

It is all part of the escalation—and supplies Nixon with two half-hour chunks of free, nationwide television time in the final campaign days.

The Nixon campaign also produced a half-hour show of its own Sunday night, featuring the nominee's reminiscences about his youth and his life in politics. Thursday night, there is a hour-long telecast—worth about $150,000—of a Nixon rally at Madison Square Garden.

And on election eve, Nixon will stage a two-hour televised session from Los Angeles, answering questions.

This week, Nixon is scheduled to campaign in the seven oldest electoral vote states: New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Texas and California.

All Rated Crucial
He has been in all of them before, he rates them all as crucial.

One concern of Nixon strategists: Should a handful of those states, in each of which Nixon has claimed the lead, slip into the Humphrey column, the result could be an Electoral College deadlock. That prospect, of course, is raised by the third party campaign of George C. Wallace.

Another feature of the campaign windup: an intensified attack on Humphrey. Nixon has called his rival a man bankrupt of ideas, a candidate whose symbol should be a dinosaur, a pupil in Lyndon Johnson's obedience school.

Through it all, Nixon appears to be working to insulate himself against the possible political shock waves of a dramatic peace move in Vietnam.

Thus he chose to report on Friday that he had learned of a peace drive aimed at a bombing pause and a possible cease-fire.

most bitter in California," said Raah.

Part of last week's schedule didn't meet Humphrey's approval as making best use of his time. And he told newsmen, "I will be personally taking control on the schedule for this final week."

This meant a lot of activity is planned to whip up support in big states like Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Illinois and California.

The Humphrey people argue that they can win if they are able to put together victories in two out of three of these states: New York, California and Texas.

Illinois Written Off

The vice president says he has at least a 50-50 chance of winning Texas and New York—along with Maine, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Delaware, Ohio, Michigan, Missouri, Tennessee, Minnesota, Nevada, New Mexico, Texas, Maryland, Kentucky, Washington, Virginia, North Carolina and West Virginia.

Some advisers, if not Humphrey, have written off Illinois and believe it will be very difficult to win California.

Says Plan Could End Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Teachers' union president Albert Shanker has proposed a plan which he says could end the teachers strike and get 1.1 million pupils back into public schools this week.

Meanwhile, the city's labor picture brightened as firemen announced they were following policemen in ending their work slowdowns.

Shanker's conditions Sunday night for ending the walkout by the 55,000-member United Federation of Teachers coincided with previous proposals by Mayor John V. Lindsay and the Board of Education.

Proposal Is Negotiable
Saying some of the proposals "are negotiable" and that it appeared "to be the only way out of the situation," Shanker listed the following conditions:

Continue the temporary suspension of Brooklyn's Ocean Hill-Brownsville governing board and its unit administrator, Rhody McCoy; temporarily closing Junior High School 271, scene of violence and threats against about 80 unwanted union teachers; letting those teachers teach in the district's seven other schools; and temporary suspension of the district's eight principals.

Before striking for the third time Oct. 14, Shanker and the union's executive board rejected proposals by the board and Lindsay which contained all points except dismissal of the principals.

Shanker disclosed his plan on a special WNBC-TV program, appearing with Board of Education President John Doar.

There was no immediate comment from Lindsay on Shanker's proposal.

Pupils have been out of classes on 21 of the first 33 days of the school term.

The governing board of the experimental Ocean Hill district, predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican, maintains the unwanted union teachers were sabotaging school decentralization—the reason the local board was set up in the first place.

The union contends job security and "due process" is at stake, and charges the local board with racial bias.

On Sunday, the executive board of the 10,500-member United Firefighters Association voted unanimously to return to full duty, subject to a membership vote Thursday.

On Saturday, the 22,000-member Patrolmen's Benevolent Association voted to head a court order and end a week-long "sick call" slowdown which cut patrol force by about 20 per cent.

PBA head John J. Cassese said, "We cannot in good conscience arrest someone tomorrow if it is said we are violating the law."

The police and firemen want to renegotiate contracts that would have raised the top pay base from $9,383 to $10,750 a year.

Lindsay Hits Storm King; Hazard to Water Supply

NEW YORK (AP) — The city opposes construction of Consolidated Edison Co.'s Storm King power project unless the company eliminates alleged dangers to the Catskill Aqueduct.

The Mayor's office said Sunday night that "this project constitutes a real hazard to the water supply of New York's residents. . . ." This hazard, it added, "Could have catastrophic consequences to nearly eight million persons."

The city filed a petition last week with the Federal Power Commission contending that blasting or tunneling required for construction of the project on the Hudson River might damage the aqueduct's pressure tunnel under Storm King Mountain.

The petition asked the FPC to enter the case for the first time and reopen hearings on the Storm King project.

"While New York supports the general plan of the company to replace its old coal and oil-fired generators in the city proper with this new facility upriver," the petition said, "it is strenuously opposed to the location of the proposed project on and near this vital link to its water supply."

The petition said experts from the city's Board of Water Supply had warned that the construction might endanger the Moodna pressure tunnel which takes water far under Storm King Mountain to the Hudson.

pressure tunnel on its way from the watersheds to the city.

"Until subject application is amended to eliminate those risks to the aqueduct . . ." it said, "Consolidated Edison should not be permitted to proceed with the construction of this project."

Even if a bypass is constructed under the current Moodna tunnel, the experts said, it might also be endangered by the instability of the rock formation in the Storm King Mountain area.

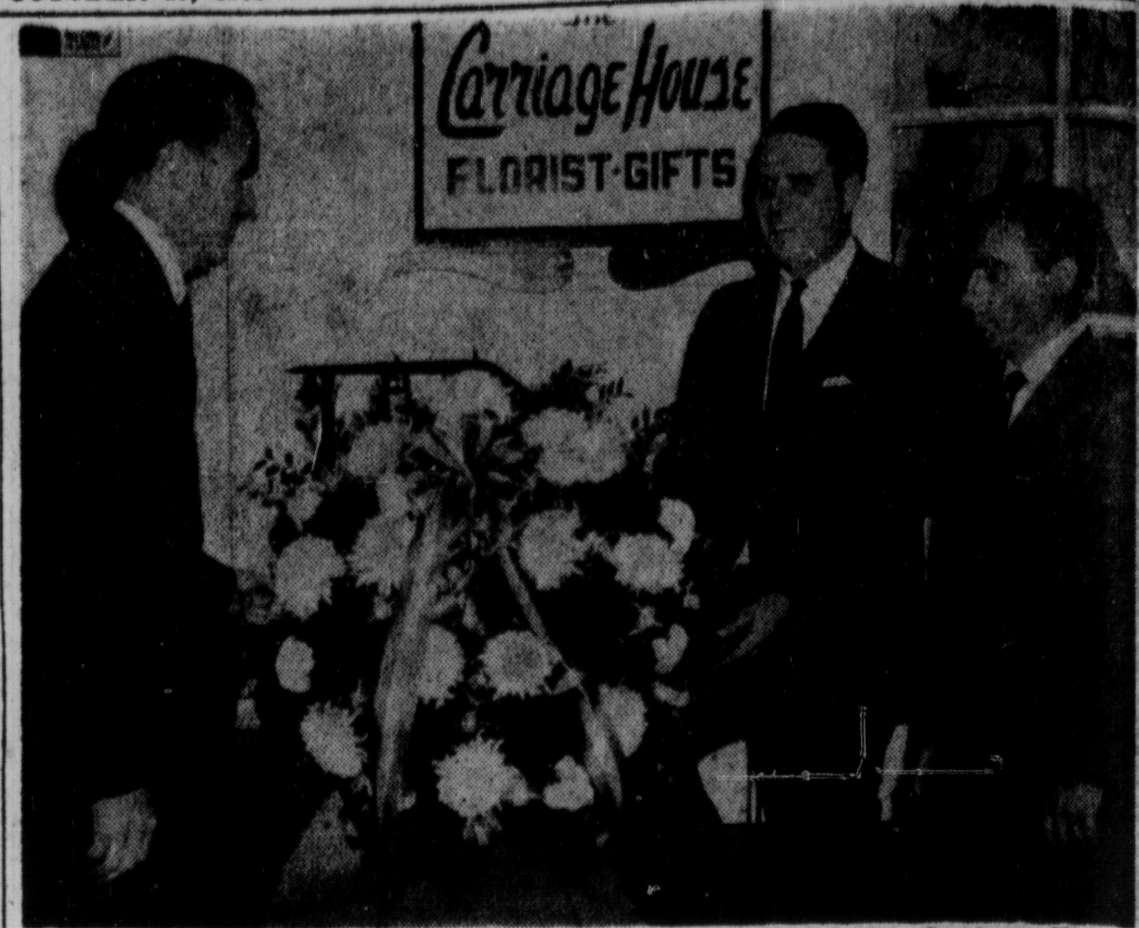

Crash Kills Troy Man, 3 Others Hurt

AMSTERDAM, N.Y. (UPI)—John Gregware, 41, of Troy was killed and three members of his family injured Saturday when their car collided with a tractor-trailer on Route 30 in the town of Florida.

The Montgomery County sheriff's office said the Gregware car apparently crossed over the center line into the path of the truck.

Hospitalized after the accident were John D. Gregware, 9, Edna Gregware, 49 and John T. Gregware, 64.

The truck driver, Ronald Pennington, 54, of Scheer, W. Va., was not hospitalized.

The wreath and plaque will be presented by Association President Robert H. Saehloff (left) of Kingston. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Erichsen of Highland attended the ceremonies with Saehloff. SPEAKS AT BLOCK PARK — John S. Dyson, Democratic candidate for Congress, is shown addressing some of the more than 750 persons who turned out Saturday night to witness a torchlight parade and a rally at Block Park. Several bands, ponies and "Dyson Girls" took part in the parade which began at Thomas Street and proceeded downtown along Abeel Street to the park. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Candidate Canvasses District

750 Attend Dyson Rally

A parade of more than 100 cars and three bands moving down Broadway Saturday night kicked off a giant rally at Block Park at which Democrat candidate John S. Dyson spoke to about 750 persons.

The event was part of a huge campaign effort called "Dyson Weekend" which saw the candidate meeting thousands of people throughout the 28th District at rallies and helicopter stops in the five counties.

The Millbrook publisher expressed optimism at his prospects in November as a result of the "tremendous crowds" he encountered.

In Kingston, Dyson was enthusiastically greeted by hundreds of residents who lined the cavalcade route. He concluded his 16-hour day with an address to the Schoharie County Democratic Dinner.

Sunday, Dyson made 15 helicopter stops while crisscrossing the district. At the day's conclusion he declared, "The response I received over the weekend from Kingston to Chatham, from Ellenville to Pawling was spontaneous and overwhelming; I am confident that we had created the momentum necessary to bring victory next Tuesday."

Throughout the weekend, Dyson hammered away at the same theme, declaring: "My entire campaign has been based on three principles — First, I have pledged to bring person-to-person representation to the citizens of this District. I will be available to handle any problem, no matter how small it may appear in the eyes of others.

Second, I have spoken out on the crucial issues facing us today; you know where I stand. I was even able to prod my opponent into a series of debates so that the public could discover both our positions and make an intelligent choice.

Third, I have presented fresh, sensible solutions to our lingering problems. My opponent represents the old politics, which for 30 years, has struggled with the problems of this country."

Bell Reviews the Issues

All campaign issues from education to gun legislation were aired by H. Clark Bell, Republican-Conservative candidate for the Assembly this weekend.

Speaking at both the Shandaken GOP dinner and at a street-corner rally in Shandaken, Bell also proposed new legislation to deal with problems such as narcotics and reconstruction of Rt. 209.

On the problem of narcotics, Bell proposed a "Jail the Pusher" bill which calls for mandatory 25-years imprisonment for any person convicted of selling or attempting to sell narcotics to a minor.

Bell also proposed mandatory imprisonment for anyone convicted of a crime involving the use of firearms. "The lawless element must be put on notice that they will not receive suspended sentences," he said as he described his plan to "Jail the Gunny."

Switching to education, Bell said: "I strongly favor self-determination and local control of school districts by the people who live in the district. Bell also favored broadening the tax base to relieve the high burden on real property taxes.

"Broadening the tax base would allow maintenance and provide a method of granting long overdue and needed relief to hard-pressed homeowners."

Bell stated that in his opinion, in some cases State Education Commissioner James E. Allen holds excessive power which is not reviewable in a court of law. "We must move toward more direct local control to guarantee local citizens an effective voice in how their tax-dollars are spent," he said.

Bell said he doesn't feel that gun legislation to register or license longarms is a realistic move in controlling crime. Quoting from a 1967 FBI report, he said, "Twenty-three per cent of the homicides were perpetrated through stabbings by knives and other such instruments. Seventeen per cent of the homicides were caused by poison, drowning and miscellaneous causes, etc. Firearms were used in 60 per cent of the homicides, but interestingly enough, only seven per cent of these involved the use of rifles and this seven per cent involved crimes by mentally disturbed people, and crimes of passion."

It is obvious that registration and licensing would penalize sportsmen without having a significant effect on the upward spiraling crime rate."

Bell also outlined a three-point program to deal with air pollution and spoke of the inequities of Medicaid, proposing a complete reevaluation which would exclude those persons able to provide their own medical costs.

Freeman's Endorsement of Bell Draws Statement From Gorman

Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, Democratic candidate for Assembly today declared, "While the three-man editorial board of the Kingston Freeman did not endorse my candidacy, I am gratified by their recognition that I was the only man to raise any issues."

The Democratic candidate for the State Assembly stated, "We all realize that it is an agonizing task for that Freeman editorial board to endorse any Democrat, and by endorsing Sheriff Martin they forthrightly recognized his contribution, even though they must have swallowed hard while doing it."

Dr. Gorman said, "While it would be something of a minor miracle if anyone living can remember the last time the newspaper endorsed a Democrat, the only stated reason for the Bell endorsement was that he has 'promise' that he 'appears to have the ability and drive,' and that he, our boy Bell, had an impressive record at the Constitutional Convention."

The Kingston surgeon went on to say, "While it is hard to disagree that Bell must have some promise somewhere, and we may all agree that he appears to have drive, although I question the ability angle, I must take strong exception to that three-man board when they cite Bell's record at the Constitutional Convention."

Dr. Gorman asserted, "I don't call taking school budget voting rights away from the people as being in any way a distinguished idea. 'I don't believe that letting the federal government take over local welfare operations makes Bell eminently qualified.'"

"I don't feel that battling against the 'forever wild' conservation plan helps our sportsman, our wildlife, our forests, and by any stretch of the imagination makes Bell the ablest available man."

Dr. Gorman declared, "I don't feel that the only man to vote against the Constitution's Bill of rights will somehow 'gain stature.'"

The Assemblyman candidate said, "The editorial devoted two full paragraphs to my plans and ideas, and if you read that endorsement you will see that absolutely no plans or ideas or suggestions to come out of Bell were ever mentioned."

Dr. Gorman went on to say, "The reason nothing about those helpful hints from Bell were mentioned was because, as everybody should now recognize there just aren't any."

The Kingston doctor said, "Bell has only two attributes as far as I can see: he speaks softly, and carries a pretty face."

"Scan the newspapers," Gorman said, "or try to remember the last time Clark Bell said anything about our highways, our water-sewer facilities, our air and water pollution, our need for a county tax map."

The doctor further said, "We have not one single helpful or forceful suggestion from this man who, as all of us should recognize, did not really work very hard for that Freeman endorsement."

Dr. Gorman concluded, "I will continue to fight the only battle I care to wage, and that is to explore all the issues, to try to gain a perspective on all the problems, to let the people know where I stand."

A Good Citizen Passes

The sudden death of G. Herbert DeKay grieves the host of friends which this thorough gentleman accumulated during a useful, interesting and happy life. In all the range of his activities, he made enduring friendships. People were of his deepest concern and interest. One of his outstanding virtues was his loyalty to the community and its people.

In every community from time to time, occasion brings to the front an outstanding figure who, in a quiet manner, has accomplished the unusual. In Herbert DeKay, the community lost a true servant the breadth of whose services can be measured by the scope of his activities and the depth of his grasp as a genuine citizen.

His record of service included the presidency of the Kingston YMCA, Rip Van Winkle Council Boy Scouts, Kingston Kiwanis Club and Old Dutch Church Men's Club. He also was vice president of the Kingston Area Library and Ulster County Community Chest and trustee of the Home for the Aged and the Kingston Hospital.

For his dedication and community leadership he received numerous awards including the Kingston Newspaper Guild's Page One citation for civic service and the Kingston YWCA distinguished service award.

A great void has been created by the death of G. Herbert DeKay of whom his friends are able to say in all sincerity that "none knew him but to love him, nor named him but to praise."

Trend in Congress

Americans for Constitutional Action, the organization that keeps tabs on Congress for the conservative cause, found both houses increased their conservative votes in the session that just ended. It predicted that if the election were held now, the conservative tide would insure a conservative majority in the House of Representatives.

This was disputed by Louis H. Bean, the political analyst, who said that the Democrats are stronger in the Congressional than in the Presidential contest. He predicted that the next Congress would not be much different from the Democratic controlled 90th Congress.

Charles A. McManus, executive director of the conservative organization, released statistics to support the conservative trend. Ratings based on selected roll-call votes for all Senators averaged 38.4 per cent in 1965 and climbed to 49.66 per cent this year. For the House, the average rose from 38.9 per cent to 48.8 per cent.

By parties, the Democratic average for the Senate was 36.76 against 62.72 for Republicans. In the House, the Democratic average was 28.11 against 74.83 for the Republicans.

If there is a conservative trend, obviously it would help the Republicans, but whether it would change the control remains to be seen.

No Matter Who Is Elected

The 200 leaders of business and industry who make up the Business Council heard a group of economists of major American corporations predict that, no matter who is elected President next month, the country is heading for an inflationary binge next year that is bound to bring a major recession in 1970.

They called it a "correction" in the economy to avoid the inflammatory term recession, but whether they call it a rolling readjustment, high level stagnation or a business slowdown, it still would mean recession as Ralph Lazarus, chairman of the Council's Economics Committee, declared.

A recession can be avoided by strong fiscal and monetary measures, but these would bring a substantial increase in unemployment, which would be neither politically wise nor socially acceptable. The incoming President therefore will have a major problem on his hands very soon and his ability to solve it may determine his chances of re-election.

The New Economics solved a similar situation eight years ago. Perhaps instead of taxing and spending and spending, we can combine private and public spending with tax incentives to put private spending where it is most needed to give jobs, and thereby find a viable solution. That would be more acceptable than spending ourselves into bankruptcy.

Like the old fire horse he is, Senator Ernest Gruening, Alaska, who lost his bid for the Democratic nomination last month in the primary, will seek re-election as a write-in candidate. That is the hard way to do it, but as a one-time newspaper editor he can't give or won't give up.

100,000 Nixon Watchers To Keep Eyes on Voting

WASHINGTON — Was the 1960 election stolen from Richard Nixon? Many Republicans in high places are convinced that it was and that no chances should be taken this year for a repetition of the frauds that were committed.

The Nixon headquarters has organized 100,000 watchers to keep their eyes on what is happening in connection with the registration of voters and the voting on Election Day. Out of this number, at least 20,000 are examiners who have been trained and instructed about the things to watch in specific areas in the big cities.

Already, according to the Chicago Daily News, scores of persons who have been registered in a certain ward in Chicago have given addresses of burned-out buildings and vacant lots or houses where other tenants now live.

Few people today are aware of what happened in the election just eight years ago. Victor Lasky, in a book just published by the Trident Press in New York City, points out that Nixon was declared as defeated by only 119,000 votes out of 68,000,000. Lasky writes:

"Hardly had the votes been counted before complaints poured in — particularly from Illinois and Texas — that the election had been 'stolen.'"

"All three major Chicago newspapers agreed that the charges had some substance. As the Chicago Tribune put it, 'the election of November 8 was characterized by such gross and palpable fraud as to justify the conclusion that (Richard Nixon) was deprived of victory.'"

"Kennedy had taken Illinois and its 27 Electoral Votes by less than 10,000 votes and, as usual, most of the alleged vote-stealing occurred in Democrat-controlled Cook County. Many city precincts reported more votes than were actually cast on the basis of ballot requests. Eventually the election board of one precinct was convicted of fraud."

"Responsible Texans estimated that from 100,000 to 150,000 ballots were actually cast that were never accounted for. Since Kennedy carried the state by less than 50,000, these ballots might easily have changed the result. In his 'look' article, 'how to steal an election,' Richard Wilson wrote that in one Texas precinct where only 86 persons received ballots, the results showed Kennedy 147; Nixon, 24. All over Texas, similar irregularities occurred. And similar charges were made in Pennsylvania, Missouri and New Jersey."

Nixon was urged at the time by his supporters to contest the election. But, on looking into the legal aspects, he discovered it would take at least a year and a half to get a recount in Cook County, and that there was no procedure for getting a recount in Texas. He finally decided against it, says Lasky, "because of the chaos it would have created in government."

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is fully aware of the immediate problem of preventing frauds in the 170,000 voting precincts throughout the country. It is believed, however, that much of the irregularity occurs primarily in four or five of the big cities.

The FBI has already started a probe of what is happening in Chicago based on the irregularities discovered this month by the Chicago Daily News and the Better Government Association. Two Chicago aldermen this week demanded that the FBI broaden its inspection of "ghost voters" to include 28 of the city's 50 wards.

Apparently there are not always enough enforcement officers or agents to detect the frauds that go on in many districts. This is why the Nixon organization has sought out volunteers, several of them former agents of the FBI, to uncover fraud and submit the evidence to the FBI.

The Voting Rights Act of 1965 provides safeguards to the right to vote and defines new offenses growing out of violations of voting laws. Also, under other federal laws, conspiracies to injure, threaten or intimidate any citizen in the free exercise of his Constitutional rights and conspiracies by election officials to stuff ballot boxes or miscount votes or omit certain returns are punishable by fines up to 5,000 dollars and 10 years in prison. The laws apply not merely to actual balloting but to registration.

Jitters Among Forecasters

HHH Gains Baffle Pollsters

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
CHICAGO (NEA) — Measurable movement toward Vice President Hubert Humphrey is occurring in this stretch phase of the presidential race. And it is giving a good many strategists, pollsters and analysts a mild case of the shakes.

A top Democrat not given to optimism calls the Humphrey gains significant. He furiously penciled calculations that bring the Democratic nominee to or beyond he needed 270 electoral votes for victory Nov. 5.

Gallup's newest poll showing Richard Nixon with a 12-point edge over Humphrey contrasts sharply with the Louis Harris poll placing Nixon's advantage at just 40-35. They agree on a net gain of three points for Humphrey, but both pollsters are worried over the differences in their figures and the conflict with some state poll results.

From the pollsters' offices are coming cautionary words that, at least partly because of the third party candidacy of George Wallace, this could be the worst year for the forecasters since 1948.

From one highly regarded private poll-taker comes word that two of the big northern states, Ohio and Michigan, are toss-ups at this writing. They should not be if Gallup's figures are right.

Nor should states like New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey be teetering on the brink.

Normally skeptical Democratic leaders think the latter three are today leaning their way, that the same is true in Ohio and Michigan, that Massachusetts is safely tucked away for Humphrey and that he is moving to a 4-point edge in big Texas.

Republican strategists themselves have New York in their doubtful category and several other analysts — though not all — agree. Fresh reports from field inquiries in Pennsylvania tend to support the notion it may be leaning to the vice president.

One key Democrat even argues privately that California's 40 electoral votes are not beyond final reach, despite a new state poll putting Nixon's lead at substantial 45-35. Only Illinois seems to give the Humphrey forces no new hope at all among the big states.

It is known that prominent pollsters are burning the telephone wires, cross-checking with each other. One confessed expert on the whole field of opinion sampling says there is always some of this, but the suggestion is still left that there is more of it than usual.

This reporter, having traveled with all three presidential candidates and presidential nominees in the past two weeks, is struck by the mood of caution among Nixon's chief electoral vote counters and the rising hope in the Humphrey camp.

Veteran newsmen moving in these various entourage are puzzled and wary, though still inclined to be most impressed by that 12-point Nixon edge shown by Gallup.

It is accepted that there is real upward motion for Humphrey, but a tendency exists to dismiss this as some kind of "expected corrective" from his abnormally low position early in the campaign.

Indeed, to calculate a Humphrey triumph on Nov. 5 requires a far-out arithmetic that would give him eight of the 10 most populous states, including the presently improbable California and leaving out just Illinois and Florida. On this vote foundation, one run-up gets Humphrey a winning 270 with only 17 states.

Victory built on such a narrow range of states sounds like the sheerest fantasy. Yet those who recall the close Truman-Dewey race of 1948 which for a time seemed headed for the U.S. House may be astonished to hear that Dewey made it close while winning just 18 states against Truman's 28 and Strom Thurmond's four. Drew Pearson Says

Nixon Was Highly Impressed By Colonel Nasser in 1963

WASHINGTON — The London Jewish Telegraph recently published a report that Richard Nixon, as he was beginning his new Wall Street law practice in 1963, offered to represent Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser for a $2 million fee.

Although it is impossible to verify what Nixon may have said to Nasser in Cairo five years ago, it is true that Nixon courted the Egyptian strong man in 1963 as vigorously as he is now courting Jewish voters.

Such Egyptian newspapers as the Egyptian Gazette and Egyptian Mail quoted Nixon in June 1963 not only as praising Nasser but as condoning the work of German scientists in Egypt. The same quotations were later distributed by the official Arab Information Center in New York City on July 1, 1963.

It has been an open secret since Nasser came to power that he has offered refuge to Nazi war criminals and scientists who are willing to help develop new weapons for Egypt. There has been speculation that the German scientists are working on missiles, nuclear weapons and even poison gas. Red Cross observers have charged, for instance, that Egyptian troops used poison gas against the Royalists in the Yemen desert.

When Nixon in 1963 was asked for his comments on the use of German scientists, he was quoted by the Arab Information Center as replying: "Of course the UAR is free to obtain technical assistance from any country, be it the United States, the Soviet Union or any other country."

Nothing to Fear

"There is no reason for fear or alarm. It is quite obvious and known that President Nasser allows no chance for any foreign domination in his country. Actually, the policy adopted here is sound and admirable."

Nixon gave these views at a Cairo press conference following a private conference with Nasser.

Nixon said of the Egyptian leader: "I was very much impressed by President Nasser's strong personality, wisdom and immense knowledge. Judging by the conversation we had this morning, President Nasser was not only very knowledgeable in his country's own affairs and problems, but also and equally, in all the issues of the Arab world, Africa, Asia, Eastern and Western Europe, and the world at large."

Except for published but unconfirmed reports, there is no evidence that Nixon's favorable remarks were intended to butter up Nasser for the sake of a $2 million fee. There is also no record that the Egyptian dictator ever retained the Nixon law firm.

Note: Nixon became involved in the legal affairs of another dictator's family in 1966. He represented the illegitimate sons of Rafael Trujillo, the assassinated dictator of the Dominican Republic, who amassed a fabulous fortune during his 30-year rule. After his murder, his oldest son, Ramfis Trujillo, made off with most of the loot. The illegitimate sons retained Nixon to help them recover what they considered to be their fair share of the inheritance. A suit was brought in Geneva, Switzerland, where most of the money had been deposited in secret Swiss bank accounts.

Meanwhile, this column has unearthed another case where Nixon appeared to be speaking for an important legal client when he wrote his semi-private letter to 2,000 Wall Streeters opposing what he described as "bureaucratic" federal regulation.

The client is Warner-Lambert, one of the larger drug firms of the United States, whose chairman Elmer Bobst is a friend of Nixon's and helped to nudge the firm of Mudge, Stern, Baldwin and Todd into making Nixon its senior partner. The drug company, as one of the law firm's better-paying clients, was in a position to apply a little gentle persuasion.

Warner-Lambert, like all drug companies, is now regulated by the Food and Drug Administration, and manufactures Peritrate, a drug used in the treatment of heart disease. In 1965 Peritrate encountered the type of federal regulations which Nixon now apparently would like to restrict, and the Nixon firm handled the case for Warner-Lambert.

The federal government seized Peritrate for using advertising not approved by the Food and Drug Administration and brought proceedings against Warner-Lambert under the Kefauver law in the U.S. Eastern District of New York. In 1966 Warner-Lambert bowed to federal regulation and signed a consent decree agreeing that it would not use such advertising in the future.

The Nixon law firm has also represented Warner-Lambert before the Securities and Exchange Commission.

This now adds up to at least four important clients which the Nixon law firm has represented before federal regulatory agencies — Warner-Lambert; El Paso Natural Gas before the Federal Power Commission and the SEC; the Delaware and Hudson Railroad and the MK&T Railroad, both before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Since five members of the Nixon law firm are now devoting most of their time to running the Nixon campaign and since law partner John Mitchell is his campaign manager, the public has a right to know more about Nixon's views on federal regulation. Will he speak for the consumers or for his law firm when he gets into the White House? So far Nixon has refused to answer newspaper questions on "Meet the Press," "Issues and Answers," "Face the Nation" or any other television program.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

He took a long pull on the bottle of bourbon standing on the dresser. "It takes legs," he said. "Legs will carry an officer up front with his men, or they'll carry him back to GHQ." He set the bottle back gently. "Legs have guts, or legs are jelly."

It was the last summer of the war. Richmond was hot. The creek beds were dark damp. General Lewis Puller of the United States Marine Corps strode back and forth across the little hotel room. He looked like a fighting cock; he had the broad flat face of the ventriloquist's dummy. He had the legs, but the Pentagon had recalled him from the Pacific.

He was "on leave." The whispered word was that the general was battle happy. His Marines, in concert with an Army division, had taken the island of Peleliu. It was done the hard way. Chesty Puller's kids had killed 10,000 Japanese troops and captured one.

The general sent the one prisoner back to GHQ with a big sign on his shirt: "Herewith one prisoner with apologies, Puller." The word got out and the general was recalled.

Away back in 1918, he had been too small, too skinny and too young to make World War I. He lied on a Marine Corps enlistment form and the Corps took him and ran him through the toughest boot camp in the world — Parris Island. He came out of it the toughest Marine in the world.

Enlisted men seldom reach high rank. The rare one who makes master sergeant is in clover. Nothing could stop Puller. His chest became bigger and bigger and his leg muscles were out of a quarry. He made rank after rank. By the time he was finished with World War II, he was a Major General, with four — count 'em — Navy Crosses, and enough additional medals to run across four rows of his chest.

I sat on the bed in the hot hotel room, making notes for a magazine article. He took another drink, and stood the Christmas tree in a corner of a wall. "Christmas in July," I said. The mean features softened. The wide mouth cracked in a smile. "Ah," he said and stopped. "Well, I meant to tell you, I married sort of late. Then they cut orders for the Pacific, you see, so I never got to see the baby."

I had caught him on his way home to a small Virginia town. "I don't give a damn what month it is. My boy is going to have Christmas when I get home. Tell you something else — I'm having Christmas with him." We talked of war and peace and his inability to resist running up to the front lines to tell each platoon what was expected of it.

"If you explain it to the kids, they understand. Hell, they'll go out and execute the order. I'm always afraid that some captain or lieutenant won't tell it straight." He was a hero's hero without consciously trying, but he couldn't understand why the brass despised him.

He left me, and the half empty bottle, and carried the tree under one arm and a bag of baby toys under the other. "Imagine having a kid at my age," he said. We both laughed.

They brought him back to action in Korea. Chesty Puller led the U. S. Marines all the way up the bowling alley to the edge of the Yalu. General Douglas MacArthur had promised to send "the boys" home for Christmas, but they were caught up there by a gigantic Chinese "volunteer" army which swept through the passes and cut the men off.

Puller waited for orders. The word was to try to retreat through the mass of Chinese and rejoin the main forces. The general cursed. Then he passed the word to cut the heart out of anyone who tried to block the Marines. They did. He walked beside the lead tanks and he led them back through a sea of shrieking Chinese. It was a textbook retreat, but a retreat.

Chesty Puller was retired as later, he testified for Drill Instructor Matthew McKeon, a soft-hearted platoon commander who tried to punish his "boots" by marching them through the oozy boondocks at night. Six drowned. Puller's legs brought him back to Parris Island to testify in favor of vigorous discipline, even in the face of a tragic accident. Puller studied the complete record and said that McKeon was a good sergeant; a good Marine.

That night the general of officers invited Puller to a formal dinner. He declined, and drank beer with 600 NCO's at their club. After that, Puller retired to his home. I never heard of him or his baby again.

Last week, an Associated Press dispatch opened: "The Marines at Da Nang said Tuesday that Lt. Lewis B. Puller Jr. lost both his legs in a booby trap explosion and has been awarded the silver star." . . .

Soviet Arms Force Ho To Fight War U.S. Way

The Gallup Report Humphrey Gains; Wallace Declines

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is just possible Ho Chi Minh has outsmarted himself.

Paradoxically, his undoing may come from the large quantities of very superior weapons Ho persuaded Moscow to send him.

These new weapons force Ho's armies to become dependent on large supply lines, semi-conventional tactics and conventional troops.

These changes downgrade the role of guerrillas. This, in turn, forces a heavy dependence on food supply lines and food dumps. Conventional troops cannot live off the land efficiently for extended periods.

Large food and material dumps are relatively easy to discover and to destroy.

These changes mean too, that few of the troops are native to the area where they are fighting.

As a result, villagers are not attached to Ho's mainline troops with the same degree of personal loyalty which they have in the past given guerrilla units containing numbers of relatives, neighbors and friends.

This lesser loyalty makes it easier for U.S. and South Vietnamese troops to secure information on enemy troop movements, hiding places and supply dumps.

It has been the lack of such information that has made the fighting of the Viet Cong so difficult in the past.

Dependency on large supply dumps limits the mobility of the North Vietnamese troops. The knocking out of a relatively few large dumps can upset an entire campaign in wide areas.

Moreover, the large amounts of food and supplies these "modernized" forces require force Ho's troops to draw back frequently into safe areas in Cambodia, Laos and North Vietnam. Local food stocks cannot maintain them.

The larger supply requirements mean that arms and food must be brought deep into South Vietnam by truck.

Trucks are easier to find and hit than man-back or cycle packers. A partially road-bound line of communications limits the localities in which large dumps can be placed.

Now the military war is not the whole war in South Vietnam by any means. So these Ho, military shifts do not guarantee his defeat. They do mean, however, that more and more Ho is playing the military side of the war our way.

The more Ho stresses superior weapons and conventional fighting, the easier it will be for Americans to train South Vietnamese units to take over a greater role in the war. It should not be difficult, for example, to insure that South Vietnamese forces will be able to outgun Ho's Hanoi troops. We have the equipment and the know-how to make effective use of conventional tactics when the enemy chooses to fight that way.

If the present trend continues, in fact, it should be possible to start bringing home some U.S. units before the end of 1969 regardless of what Hanoi does in Paris.

PRINCETON, N.J., Oct. 26 — Vice President Hubert Humphrey continues to make progress in closing the gap on Richard Nixon in the latest survey completed last Monday.

Humphrey's gains have been accompanied by a drop in support for third party candidate George Wallace. Nixon, however, continues to hold the lead and the race today stands at: Nixon — 44 per cent; Humphrey — 36 per cent; Wallace — 15 per cent; undecided — 5 per cent.

Humphrey has gained 5 percentage points since the previous survey completed in mid-October, continuing a steady pattern of progress over the last three national surveys taken, since a September 20-22 survey.

Wallace Slips

The latest survey marks the first time since the campaign began that the Wallace vote has shown any signs of slipping. His support up to the present time had centered around the 20 per cent mark since early September.

Interviewing for the latest survey was conducted between Thursday, October 17 and Monday, October 21, with the bulk of the interviewing having been completed on October 18, 19, and 20. Personal interviews were conducted with 1605 adults in 321 scientifically selected localities across the nation.

The latest results are based on those of voting age who indicate by their replies to a series of questions that they are likely to vote in November.

The proportion of adults include in the "likely voter" category corresponds to the Gallup Poll's current estimate of the percentage who will vote this November.

Here are the latest findings and the trend, with the interviewing dates:

	Nix-on	Wal-lace	Other
Latest	44	36	15
Oct. 18-22	43	31	20
Sept. 27-30	44	29	20
Sept. 20-22	43	28	21
Sept. 3-7	43	31	19

Points to Bear in Mind
Readers should bear two points in mind in interpreting survey results.

Although the average deviation of Gallup Poll final figures from the actual division of the vote in the eight national elections has been less than two percentage points, it is prudent to allow for a possible sampling error of three or four percentage points in the results reported here.

The other point is that the survey results reported today reflect the popular vote division, not the electoral college vote. It would be possible, for example, for a presidential candidate to finish behind in the popular vote and still win by a landslide in the electoral vote.

Chances of Closing Gap

Humphrey's hopes of closing the gap in the remaining days of the campaign rest to a great extent on these three factors:

Timely Quote

One of the things that has always troubled me a bit is that life is rather short and you'd better crowd as much into it as possible. I shan't be terribly sorry when men begin to refer to me as old, but I'll be awfully sorry when women do.

—Economist John Kenneth Galbraith, on his 60th birthday.

1. Winning back Democratic defectors. Humphrey has suffered record defections during this year's campaign, both to Nixon and to Wallace. If the Wallace vote falls off among traditionally Democratic groups in the North, Humphrey could improve his position.

2. Last minute events — either domestic or foreign — can shift opinion dramatically. In four of the last five presidential races — 1948, 1952, 1956 and 1964 — there has been a substantial shift in opinion during October. In 1956, Eisenhower gained an estimated 2 million votes in the final 10 days following the Hungarian revolt and the Suez crisis. In 1952, Stevenson made significant gains in October. In 1948, the evidence indicated that Truman gained enough votes in the last two weeks to win Goldwater in 1964 also made gains during October.

3. Getting his backers to put in more work at the precinct level. The Democratic party has traditionally been faced with the problem of a lower turnout among its rank-and-file. Yet recent survey evidence indicates that a far larger proportion of households have been called upon or telephoned by Republican workers than by Democratic workers.

Party activity was measured by the following question, asked in the latest survey:

In this election campaign — has any Democratic-Republican party worker called upon you personally or telephoned to try to get you to vote for Democratic-Republican candidates?

The following table indicates the total number of households reached by each party — both by telephone and in person — as of early October:

Households Reached (As of October 17-21)
By GOP workers 12%
By Dem. workers 8%

Nixon Links Hubert to U.S. Ills

By BRUCE BISSAT
Washington Correspondent

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (NEA) — There is a good deal more to Richard Nixon's semiregular campaign for the presidency than just the powerful surface signs that he is slamming harder at Vice President Humphrey.

When the GOP nominee brands his Democratic rival "the fastest, loosest tongue in American politics" or charges him with "adult delinquency," it is easy to conclude that this is the natural step-up in tone and volume one expects in a climactic attack.

But Nixon's real purposes at this stage are more complex.

For one thing, he and his strategists never forget that he is the nominee of the nation's minority party, trying to win in 1968 on the flaws and ailments of the majority Democratic party.

As voting time nears, the fear has to be that many habitual Democrats who thus far seem to have turned either to him or to third-party candidate George Wallace may decide to the end to return to their accustomed fold.

What has kept them there through most of the last 35 years is the pocketbook issue. Older workers, and through transference their sons and daughters, have believed that the Democrats are not only job providers but the promoters of extra economic sustenance through social legislation.

So, almost out of the blue, Nixon has undertaken a hammering emphasis, given nearly equal time with the war and domestic turmoil, on the idea that Democrats really bad for the pocketbook.

The key to his effort is Nixon's portrayal of Humphrey as a man sure to be the country's "most expensive president," whose spending will prove so excessive that inflation will gnaw into wage and salary increases and stifle prospects for a widening job market.

The object, first, is to keep Democrats for Nixon, where they are. Second, it is to suggest to Wallace-minded Democrats, particularly of the blue-collar variety, that if they are getting restless in their support of Wallace, the thing to do is to move to that happy way-station, fiscally sound Richard Nixon, rather than go back to costly Hubert.

There can be no doubt that the Nixon people, and key Republicans in many places, are obsessed with the danger to them in the traditional economic tug toward the Democrats. An Ohio leader who rattles off polling evidence which makes Nixon sound like a heavy bet to capture Ohio's 26 electoral votes nevertheless winds up with a frown that looks almost like a loser's. Why? He says it:

"We can't forget voter profiles that show 42 per cent of the people think of themselves as Democrats and only 27 per cent call themselves Republicans."

When Nixon today describes Humphrey as a man who "turns and talks to the past," his clear intent is to suggest both that the Democrats' reputation as economic marvls is undeserved and that, in any event, it has no application to the vastly altered conditions of 1968.

Yet there is a lot more in where he is, out front despite his party's minority status, because the war, and most especially the "law and order" issue, appear to have overridden standard economic considerations.

Consequently, his relentless purpose is to offer Humphrey as not simply a glued-in associate of Lyndon Johnson but as an actual initiator of the troubles which unsettle so many Americans.

Nixon's battle cry that the nation cannot stand "four more years of Hubert Humphrey" seems to put the latter right in the White House in the years 1965-68. That is where Nixon wants him — locked in with the troubles and the troublemakers so many Americans wish to shake off.

Campaign of Re-Stalinization

By DONALD R. SHANOR
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

BONN, — What was the greatest Democratic and humanitarian act in world history? The establishment of the Soviet Union.

Who leads the world in the most important fields of science and economics? The Soviet Union.

Has the Soviet Union ever done anything that harmed the interests of any of the people anywhere in the world? Of course not.

The questions and answers are from current East German publications. They illustrate the campaign of re-Stalinization now in progress in the Soviet bloc.

The campaign is necessary because of the enormous loss of prestige to Russia and its allies for invading and occupying Czechoslovakia.

It might seem more reasonable to have tried to recoup these losses with a show of liberal policy. The Soviets decided instead that the best defense is a good, though offense.

Not since the 1950s, when the satellite press and radio competed eagerly to see who could lavish the most praise on Stalin and the achievements of his dictatorship, has there been such a campaign.

East Germany, as the most faithful ally and at the same time the regime with the most to lose with the loss of Moscow's support, leads the way.

East German Communist officials have even been criticizing P.T.A. meetings for not being aggressive enough in discussing Czechoslovakia and the correctness of the Soviet invasion.

To try to limit the meetings to school business shows lack of political consciousness, P.T.A. members are warned.

The Communists are operating on the theory that a set of statements, when repeated often enough, will be accepted as truth.

In this way, crushing another country's independence with tanks emerges as humanitarianism, and arresting citizens who protest the action comes out as democracy.

Talks with individual East Germans show that such repetition does not bring conviction. The man on the street in East Berlin is still relatively free with his opinion, and it is overwhelmingly against the Czech invasion.

But the East Germans recognize, too, that if arguments can be rejected, armed force cannot. The Soviet troops in East Germany, like those in Poland, Hungary, and now Czechoslovakia, have the last word.

Opportunity Near For U.S., Russia To Begin Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In small, anti-Chinese variety the 24th year of the atomic age, which the U.S. plans, McNamara, before he left face an opportunity to make their first real effort to curb their nuclear arms race. Here, an Atlas launch vehicle is taken to pad at Cape Canaveral, Fla. (Top, in 1961 photo) and Soviet ICBM rolls through street in Moscow during military parade (Bottom, in 1967 photo). (UPI TELEPHOTO)

The vehicle by which they could do so is known in official circles as "SALT" (Strategic Arms Limitation Talks) expected to be held sooner or later between the two countries.

Assuming the delays caused by the Czechoslovakia crisis are overcome, and the United States and Russia do sit down for such talks, how would they begin?

How could they tackle the complexities of the arms race? What are the prospects of success? What are the hurdles and dangers? What is the outlook if the talks do not take place?

Many U.S. weapons experts believe the two countries can best begin by just talking about the arms race, without worrying too much at the start about what agreements might someday result.

Slowdown Comes First
Their reasoning is that the first step will be not nuclear disarmament but a slowdown in the present runaway arms race. This race, they believe, is being propelled forward by a series of uncertainties, misunderstandings and different ways of looking at the problem. For example:

The United States, under former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, and probably still under his successor, Clark M. Clifford, plans its weapons on a philosophy of building "enough" power to maintain a nuclear deterrent. But there is concern here that Russia may do its planning on a "more and more and more" philosophy.

Russia has viewed anti-ballistic missiles as "defensive." The United States has viewed them as upsetting the nuclear balance (except for the

Educators Having Feud In Dublin

DUBLIN (UPI)—Dublin's Roman Catholic and Protestant academic influences face a "shotgun wedding" unless feuding educators recruited its student membership plan to merge the two institutions. In April last year, the government proposed amalgamation of Trinity College, a Protestant institution, and University College Dublin to form a new University of Dublin.

The announcement excited the imagination of the public. A new era of academic ecumenism loomed with enticing fruits for Irish students. But the proposals hit the universities like a bombshell. Old and treasured traditions were threatened and the academicians reacted with fear and suspicion. They have wrangled over terms of the merger plan ever since.

Now the dons have been given a "no more nonsense" ultimatum by Minister of Education Brian Lenihan who has told Trinity to enroll at Trinity through whether they like it or not.

The unification scheme was the brainchild of Donagh O'Malley, a dynamic young government minister who said the separation of the two universities created a barrier of prejudice, an "insidious form of partition on our own doorstep."

It was an ambitious scheme but one riddled with loopholes, vagueness and contradictions that made it dependent on the good will of those who must operate it. It was quickly shown there was a minimum of good will and much simmering hostility to the proposal among educators.

O'Malley died unexpectedly before he could implement its details.

His legacy fell to Brian Lenihan, another cabinet "whiz kid," who was totally committed to the "one university" idea and displayed growing impatience with the bickering.

He saw that the unyielding positions taken up by the respective staffs of Trinity and U.C.D. had produced a standoff that could only be resolved by a clearcut government directive.

Amalgamation would mean much more than the merging of academic facilities of two major seats of learning. It would entail a fusion of different religious, social and political concepts and loyalties.

Founded in 1591, Trinity enjoyed by both universities has been the main stumbling block in merger plans. Each university is jealous of its own tradition. Each is determined not to lose anything in merger.

Altered proposals have been handed about—strengthening of links between the universities, the promise of a closer cooperation—almost everything has been tried.

But Lenihan has thrown down the gauntlet—the merger will go through no matter what. But the result would be in doubt—down the country they will tell you the marriage of two bullocks won't raise a herd.

Two bullocks won't raise a herd.

Area Driver Injured, Cited After Accident

A 50-year-old Marlboro man was injured and later cited by Highland State Police, and a Long Island woman was injured in a separate accident investigation Sunday by area authorities.

Willie Jackson, of Marlboro, sustained injuries to the face at 8 p. m. yesterday when a truck he was driving was involved in a collision on Route 9W in the Town of Marlborough. He was taken to Vassar Hospital and treated for lacerations.

Highland troopers said Jackson submitted to a blood test at the hospital. He was cited by Trooper Edward Pulver for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, operating without a license and backing unsafely. Troopers reported the Jackson truck backed from a private driveway onto Route 9W where it was in collision with a vehicle operated by 50-year-old Margaret Najork of Cornwall. She escaped injury. Jackson was arraigned before Marlborough Justice Michael Pagano, who released the man in custody of his employer, and adjourned hearing until tonight.

Mary Jane Stryhal, 18, of Hempstead, L. I., was slightly injured when a car in which she was riding went out of control on The Thruway about one mile south of Kingston Sunday afternoon. Eileen Flanelly, 19, of Jersey City, N. J., another occupant of the car, escaped injury. Details of the mishap was not complete.

It will contain pertinent news and will also include a tear off section which can be mailed to him for the purpose of registering residents' opinions and suggestions. By doing this the GOP nominee hopes to establish a closer relationship between the people of the ward and their representative. By doing so they will be taking an active part in their city's government, he suggests.

Memoriam
In loving memory of our son and brother, James A. Acker, who passed away October 28, 1966.
You are not forgotten loved one,
Nor will you ever be.
As long as life and memory last,
We will remember thee.
What we would give to see you smile,
And sit and talk with you awhile.
Day and night we think of you,
The things you used to say and do.
The blow was sudden; the shock severe.
To part with you, so kind and dear.
We wonder why you had to die,
Without a chance to say good-bye.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore.
As time goes by, we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.
MOMMY and DADDY,
SISTERS and BROTHERS

Nixon Defends

Finally, the Times stated that:

"In 1965 Mr. Agnew joined with these businessmen in purchasing a tract of land on the probable approach route of a new, parallel span of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge. As governor, he approved this route. In response to public criticism, Gov. Agnew later sold his share of the land."

Apparently referring to this transaction, Nixon said that "when the Times claims that Gov. Agnew owned the property while he was governor, that was not the case."

Challenges

This was the only specific point on which he challenged the editorial.

In its news columns last Tuesday, the Times said Agnew agreed in 1966—before his inauguration—as governor—to sell the bridge approach property. It said the land actually was sold to his partners in the venture on Oct. 31, 1967—after he was governor—for his original purchase price of $34,200.

Nixon said in defense of Agnew that his running mate has demonstrated in the campaign that he can take political heat. He went on:

"I have made some mistakes; he has made some mistakes. And when he makes them or I make them, I think we try to get up and say, well, we admit them and try to correct them. But he is a strong man... I am very proud to be on the ticket with him."

The GOP candidate also was questioned about a statement Friday in which he raised, and rejected, charges of "a cynical, last-minute attempt by President Johnson to salvage the candidacy of Mr. Humphrey" by arranging a Vietnam bombing halt and perhaps a cease fire.

Nixon said he issued the statement because of news accounts and "a great deal of discussion" that this might be the case.

"It seemed to me," he said, "that I was being quite responsible in nailing that and making it clear that I did not share the views of those that thought the President would use these negotiations politically."

Johnson attacked Nixon's statement in a speech to Democratic workers here Sunday. Nixon said, "I would think the President would be thanking me rather than attacking me."

The Republican nominee cited but one news account as having helped prompt his statement—"a UPI report from Washington indicating that there was a lot of speculation that there were insiders in the White House staff who were attempting to work out some sort of a settlement, and that the President was going to be used for that purpose."

No Dispatch

A spokesman for United Press International said the news agency carried no such dispatch from Washington but had carried two reports by a newsman covering the Nixon campaign that said "the Nixon campaign organization" felt some White House insiders were trying to use the Vietnam peace question politically.

Milk Prices Up

Uniform farm prices for milk delivered to pool handlers in the New York-New Jersey milkshed during the last quarter of the year should average 51 cents higher than in the same period last year, it was tentatively forecast today.

Dr. A. J. Pollard, market administrator, said dairy farmers can expect to receive an average price of $5.98 per hundredweight (46.5 quarts) for October, November and December deliveries, compared to $5.47 in the last three months of 1967.

C-H Filing Rate Revision

Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation reported it is filing a rate revision with the New York State Public Service Commission which will enable it to pay five per cent interest on customer deposits rather than the current rate of four per cent.

The utility expects the change to become effective during November.

Central Hudson indicated that the public service commission recently revised its regulations and the four per cent interest limit on customer deposits will be discontinued on Oct. 31.

Nixon on Top In West Part Of N. Y. State

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Courier-Express Strav Vote for the eight counties of Western New York shows that Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon holds almost a seven point lead over Hubert H. Humphrey in the area.

In a copyrighted story in its Sunday editions the newspaper said tabulations through Saturday gave Nixon a 6.9 per cent lead over Democrat Humphrey. Nixon was credited with 43.1 per cent of the straws taken and Humphrey with 36.2 per cent.

George C. Wallace, who will appear on the Courage Party line in New York State, polled 11.1 per cent of the straws, down from 16.9 per cent two weeks ago.

The tabulations were based on 2,400 of the 5,000 straws to be taken before election day.

The Courier-Express said that although Nixon's lead was significant "it has shrunk massively since polling began Oct. 10" and that there is a persistently high rate of "undecideds" in Western New York.

More than 9.5 per cent of the persons who cast the secret ballots undecided in their presidential choice, the Buffalo newspaper said.

Now Possible To Shrink Painful Hemorrhoids

And Promptly Stop The Itching, Relieve Pain In Most Cases.

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a medication with the ability, in most cases — to promptly stop itching, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids.
Tests by doctors proved that in case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction of the inflamed hemorrhoids took place.
The secret is Preparation H®. There's no other formula like it! Preparation H also soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

Poor Showing

MANILA (UPI)—The Manila Times today described the winner of the Philippines' latest beauty contest: "Cecile Amabuyoc, 5 feet 7 inches, is not necessarily glossy and appeared to be flat-chested in an ill-fitting red bathing suit. "But she was the prettiest of all the contestants and someone had to win the title so the country could be represented in the coming Miss World Contest in London."

Millionaire Likes Chances Of United States in Future

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—Millionaire Texan H.L. Hunt is beginning to believe the future of the United States may not be limited to the next five years after all.

The five years was Hunt's own estimate. He has deplored for years what he sees as a relentless drift in this country toward socialism, and Communism, which he regards as socialism's kissin' cousin.

Earlier this year, Hunt said that if the United States can make it through the next five years — which include the November and 1972 presidential elections—it may survive.

Surveying what now is obviously a national swing toward the right, Hunt says, "It does, for a fact, look better." At 79, Hunt is one of the world's richest men and some reports have called him the richest. His personal fortune has been estimated, but not publicly by Hunt, at from $500 million to $2 billion.

He brushes off inquiries about his worth with such general statements as: "Money as money is nothing. It is just something to make bookkeeping convenient."

It may indeed be true that Hunt really does not know how much he is worth. According to one recent report, he has business interests, much of them in underground oil or gas, in 15 or 20 states, Canada, Africa and the Middle East.

The potential value of his properties may be far greater than $2 billion. In recent years, Hunt has devoted much of his time to a fight against Communism and socialism as well as "big government."

As part of his campaign, he has turned out seven books which include a plan for a national constitution in which certain qualifications would give some persons more than one vote. The books certainly are not as profitable as his oil wells and may even cost him money, but they still qualify him possibly as the richest author of all time.

Hunt freely gives away his books and does not care who quotes from them. Another of his ventures is the controversial Life Line radio series, broadcast on individual stations throughout the country. Life Line encourages quotation, with or without credit.

There is a total of seven lines about Hunt in Who's Who in America. It lists him as an oil producer. Usually it is not hard for a reporter to reach him by telephone at the Hunt Oil Co. This has not always been the case. Up to 1948, he had not been interviewed or photographed for publication.

Since 1948, it has become easier to talk to Hunt. He says he is willing to be interviewed for the sake of getting in a few words for patriotism and against Communism and liberalism.

"There is not going to be any way of life unless people wake up to the imminent Communist peril," he once said, explaining his emergence from self-imposed personal isolationism. Hunt has been interviewed by newspaper, magazine, press associations, television and radio, and frequently receives a bad press. Interviewers apparently like to show that they are not awed by his wealth, or they do not like his conservative views, or some of the people he supports.

United Press International is in Hunt's doghouse because shortly after President John F. Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas in 1963, UPI's Washington bureau quoted Sen. Maurice Neuberger of Oregon as saying Hunt "is going to have to bear a lot of the onus (for) fanatical broadcasts he sponsors. If anybody is responsible, he is."

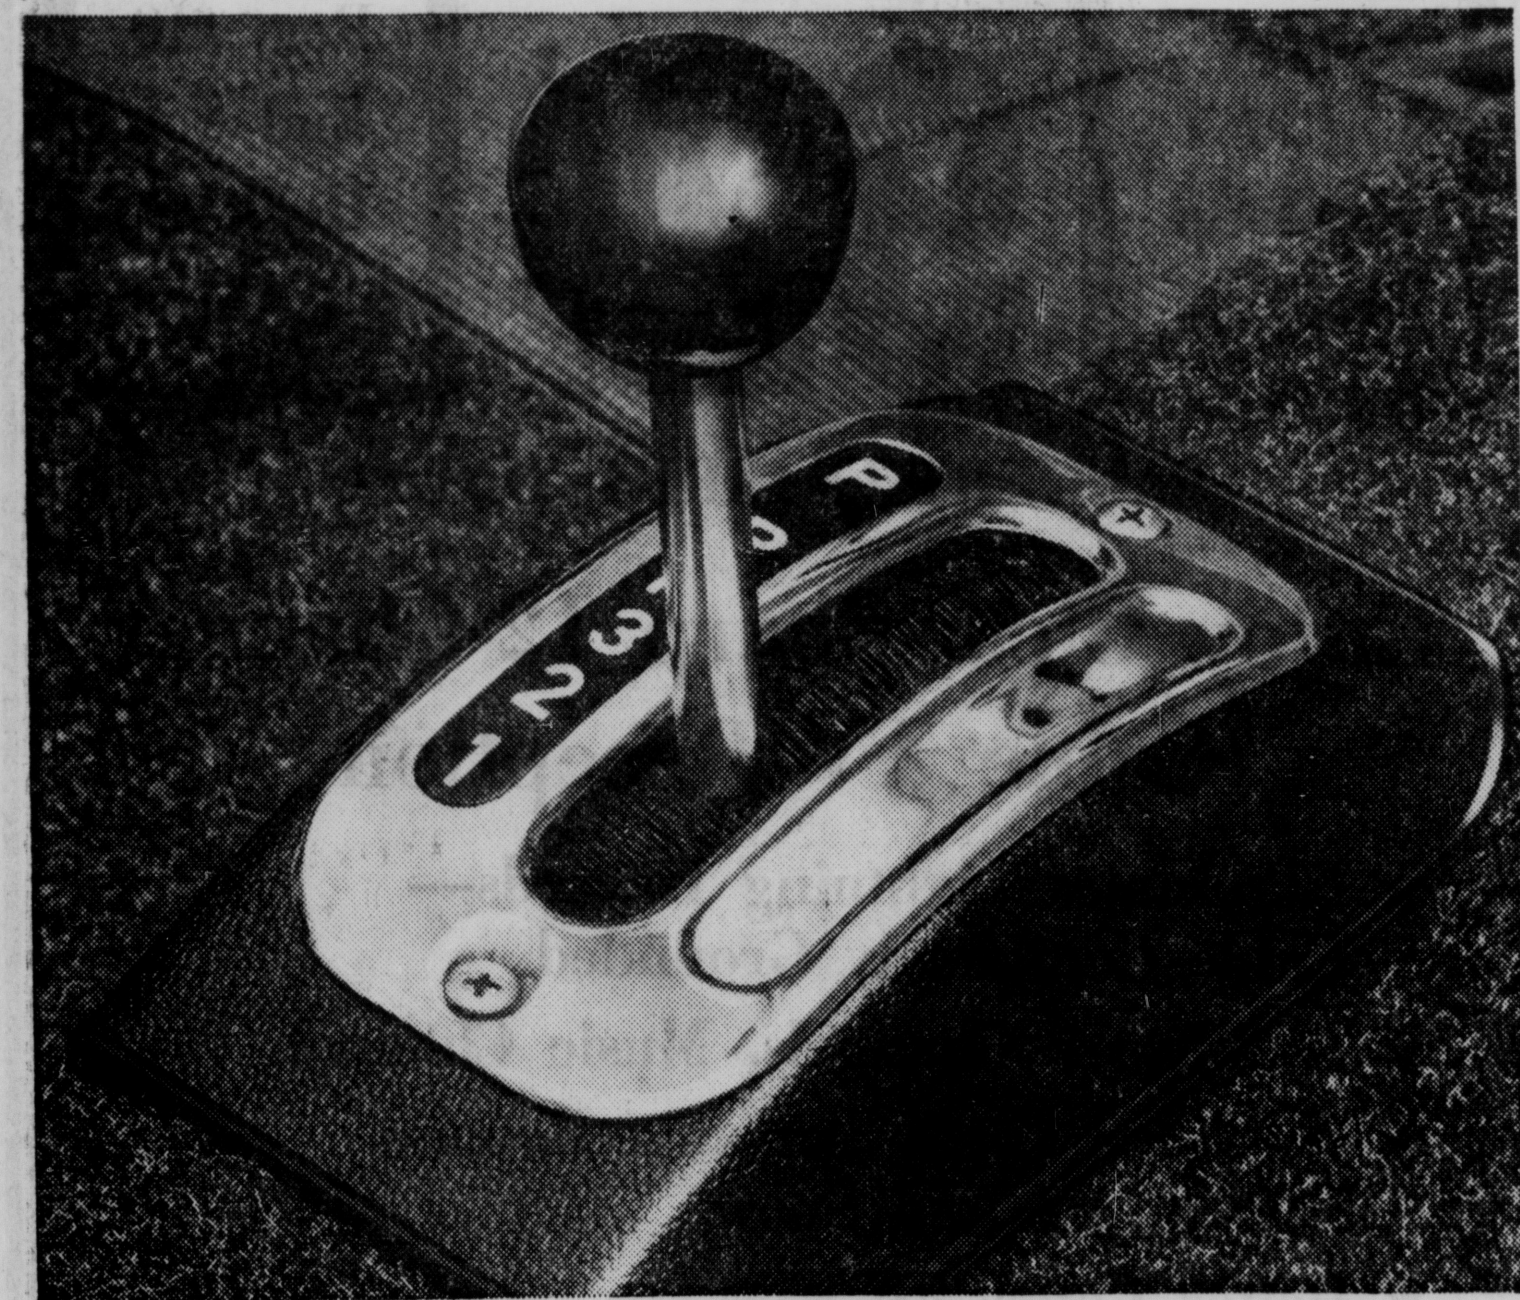

Hunt says threatening telephone calls started and he and Mrs. Hunt had to leave town so abruptly they could not stop to get extra clothes. President Kennedy was killed Nov. 22 and it was almost Christmas before police and the FBI would let the Hunts return home.

The assassin, of course, turned out to be Lee Harvey Oswald, a Marxist and supporter of Castro Cuba—exactly the kind of person against whom Hunt constantly rails.

Hunt writes a column for daily newspapers and a column for weekly newspapers and three of his books are compilations of his columns.

SOME HOPE—Millionaire Texan H. L. Hunt is beginning to believe the future of the U.S. may not be limited to the next five years after all. Hunt is shown with his wife at a $25-a-plate dinner for Third Party Presidential candidate George Wallace in Dallas. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Volkswagen announces automatic. Better late than never.

The Volkswagen Squareback and the Volkswagen Fastback are now available with a fully automatic transmission.

So now you can drive a Volkswagen and not even know you're driving a Volkswagen.

Except for a few reminders.

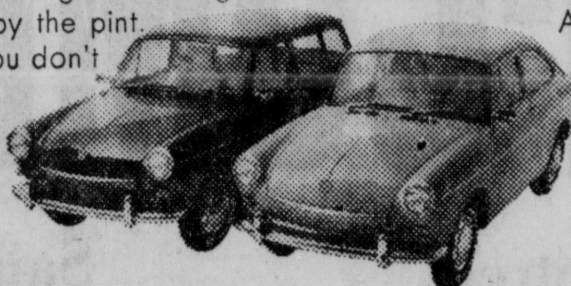

Like the 25 miles you get to a gallon of regular gas. The oil you still take by the pint. And the time and money you don't spend on anti-freeze.

Of course, the new automatic is strictly optional. Just like on most other cars.

But we've got something no other car offers even as an option. Electronic fuel injection.

And it's as standard as the electric clock, electric rear window defroster, 49-position front seats, front disc brakes and wall-to-wall carpeting.

All of which is enough to make you forget it's a Volkswagen all over again.

Mrs. America of '69 Is Housewife First

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Mrs. America, 1969, Joan Fisher of Salt Lake City, divides her time between her family and making appearances across the country—but she insists her family comes first.

"It's just like I'm leading two lives, explained the 29-year-old mother of three. "I decided if I was going to be gone a lot this year I was going to give up all my other activities to be with my family."

And Mrs. Fisher's "other activities" are impressive. She had been a substitute teacher, a guide for tours through the home of pioneer Mormon leader Brigham Young and a Republican district treasurer.

In addition, she had been the organist in the Sunday School for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, and choir director and teacher in the church's youth auxiliaries.

Her husband, Byron, an attorney and state legislator, remarked with a chuckle, "So many people wonder when we're going to get the divorce."

The children don't mind their mother's absences—at least not yet. "They have been just darling about it," Mr. Fisher said.

Hard to Attract But they have found that Mrs. America's attention may be a little difficult to attract. One night shortly after the coronation in Minneapolis, two-year-old

Janea shouted from the bedroom, "Mommy, Mrs. Utah! Mrs. America! Come here."

Joan still bakes cookies and sews for the children. The night she talked to UPI she said she had four skirts to hem for six-year-old Debra Joan before leaving the next morning for the Hemisfair at San Antonio, Tex.

The special effort to maintain family unity may be the reason her life "on the road" seems so much apart.

She explained she finds the official life of Mrs. America very rewarding and fun.

"I'm representing homemakers, but it's a glamorized representation," she said.

Mrs. Fisher added that she has a stiff pace to maintain. "I love to sleep," she said, "but I got used to the rigid schedule at the contest. I make as many commitments as possible without disrupting my whole existence."

The reward is the people, she said—"People go out of their way to be really nice to you."

A Versatile Mom

In hobbies, Joan has demonstrated that she has something to teach all her children. Debra, Janea and four-year-old Michael, too. She is an outstanding skier and also enjoys camping, but around the house she likes cooking best, enjoy doing "creative things" such as making flowers, and playing the piano.

"I love to cook," said Joan, "but I'm not a real gourmet cook. I enjoy trying new things. I'll experiment with new recipes, but I don't usually make up things myself."

She has worked with cuisine from all over the world in her experimentation. When the Fishers have a party, the guests expect her favorite, Mexican food, made with the Fishers' own homemade sauce.

Teen-agers in the neighborhood make a habit of dropping in on Sunday nights after church for Danish pancakes. And at the contest in Minneapolis, and ancient Roman theme "went over well" in the party contest, complete with individual lamb shanks for each guest and "break-off-apiece-for-yourself" Italian bread.

A happy home, centered around a close-knit family, is the goal for 1969's Mrs. America. Her three smiling children and joking husband attest that she may be very close to achieving it.

Fire Chief Warns About Leaf Burning

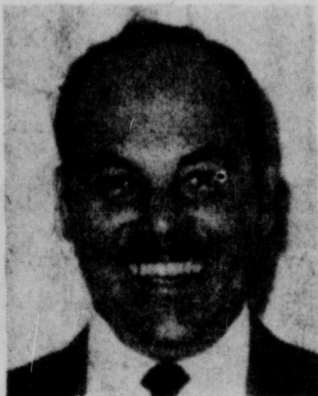

Saugerties Fire Chief George Warringer today expressed his concern with residents who are burning leaves at the curb on village streets.

He suggested that all types of burning should be done in barrels or incinerator receptacles with covers and these should be at least five feet from any combustible object. The barrels or incinerators should have a screen cover with openings of not more than a half-inch.

The chief cautions that burning should be delayed for another time if it is windy. Anyone that starts a fire near their home should standby until it is well under control and also have readily available a hose in the event the barrel fire gets out of control.

Chief Warringer said carelessness in Barclay Heights some months ago caused the death of two elderly persons, who died as a result of a fire in their home. The house caught on fire when burning leaves caught on the siding, he said. He urged extreme care on all types of burning and suggested that fire prevention practices should be observed at all times.

Testimonial Dinner Slated For Retiring RVC Manager

A Testimonial Dinner in honor of Harold B. Rich, retiring Business Manager of the Rondout Valley Central School District, has been planned for Friday, November 1. The dinner will be held at Liguori's Restaurant on Route 32, Rosendale, at 7 p.m.

School officials and Board of Education members will honor Mr. Rich for his 25 years of service to area schools. Other residents of the district, who have been associated with him, either in business or in school matters, will also attend.

Rondout Seniors Plan Party For Halloween

Mrs. Anna Jackson, president of the Rondout Martin Luther King Senior Citizens group, has announced that a Halloween party will be given at the Rondout Neighborhood Center, 53 Broadway, on Oct. 29 at 8 p.m.

A program has been arranged by Mrs. Sharon Kennedy, a student from Ulster County Community College, who is doing her field work with the senior citizens of Rondout.

Entertainment and refreshments will be served, with refreshments supplied by Andrew Murphy III, director of the City of Kingston Recreation Department.

All senior citizens of Rondout have been invited.

Rich began his connection with local schools during the 1940's, when he was a Board of Education member and Clerk of the Board at the old Kerhonkson School. He has been Business Manager of the Rondout Valley Central School since 1959.

District on a full-time basis

Following his retirement at the end of November 1968, Mr. Rich plans to do accounting part-time at his home office in Kerhonkson, particularly in the field of income tax. He and Mrs. Rich also hope to travel.

George Stockin, president of the Board of Education, will be Master of Ceremonies.

Lists Ways to Treat Narcotics Addiction

David L. Diamond, assistant counsel for the State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission, said the commission has three ways to bring about the treatment of narcotic addicts while speaking at a Narcotic Seminar at Ulster County Community College.

He said that convicted addicts can be sent to the commission for treatment.

In addition, Diamond said an individual accused of an addiction crime can request civil certification to be treated rather than face the criminal charge.

Finally, according to Diamond, an addict on his own behalf, or the friend of an addict, can request civil certification to be treated for three years.

Diamond spoke to an audience in the Teaching Auditorium at the college and his talk also was beamed via closed circuit television to several classes in session last night at the college.

Hurley Board Sets Hearing On Zoning

The Hurley Town Board will hold a public hearing on a proposed zoning ordinance for the township on Nov. 11 at 8 p.m. at the Hurley Elementary School auditorium.

The text of the ordinance was prepared and accepted by the board.

Halloween curfew hours have been set by the board at 10 p.m. on the nights of Oct. 30 and 31.

Anyone under the age of 18 years must be off the town streets unless accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Education Week To Be Observed

American Education Week, Nov. 10 to 16, will be observed by the Rondout Valley Central Schools with a series of Open Houses at its schools beginning with the Rosendale School on Wednesday, Nov. 6.

The open house will coincide with the monthly Parent Teacher Association meeting of the school. Exhibits of student work will be displayed in the classrooms and corridors.

Son of West Shokan Residents Promoted at Danbury Airport

WEST SHOKAN — Retired Air Force colonel Victor P. Coletti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Coletti of West Shokan, has been appointed new chief pilot and flight operations manager at Danbury (Conn.) Airport.

A 24-year veteran of the nation's flying arm, Col. Coletti has logged some 9,500 hours of flying in his glittering service career. In layman's figures that totals more than 13 months spent up in the blue.

Coletti, a native New Yorker who attended the University of Oklahoma and did graduate work at George Washington University, goes to the Danbury facility from Daytona Beach, Fla., where he was chief ground instructor and flight instructor at a Federal Aviation Agency-approved school.

At Danbury airport, Col. Coletti will introduce a sophisticated innovation—the Link Aviation GAT-1 simulator for training. This is a refined version of the Link trainer so familiar to Air Force veterans.

Coletti has logged more than 700 flight hours under adverse weather conditions and plans also to call for actual weather flying lessons in the flight curriculum at the airport.

The retired Air Force officer has served as senior advisor and chief flight instructor for B52 bombers and fighter planes.

He attained an airplane transport pilot rating in civil aviation and the Gold Seal instructor rating for airplanes and instruments.

Danbury Airport's main aeronautic function is recreational, tenance chief for KC-135 tank-although considerable activity in the Vietnam area where the facility is devoted to operations included refueling business charters and air taxis.

Restoration Program Underway For Stone Church in Rhinebeck

By SHANE CROSBY

A stone church in Rhinebeck that was erected around a smaller wooden chapel in the late 1700s is the object of a restoration program being conducted by a small group in that Dutchess County community.

The church, a Dutch Reformed congregational sits on a knoll in the township along Route 9 just north of the Route 9 and 9G intersection.

The original chapel was constructed in the 1720s, according to Town Historian DeWitt Gurnell. He said that the outer church was erected while services were being conducted in the wood structure.

"The people went regularly," he said, "while the stone of the new church was being laid."

Founded by the same family that began the community now known as Poughkeepsie — the Palentines — the church is in the process of being saved by descendants of that family.

Trustees of the church are seeking descendants of the Palentines in hopes that they will join in the effort to restore the church and adjoining property.

Will Unveil Plaque

A plaque commemorating the founding of the church by the family is soon to be placed on the structure, Gurnell said.

He has been one of the prime movers of the project, but claims little credit for his efforts saying "I don't want to be a headline hunter."

Gurnell and others including descendants of the founders are hoping to have the site listed as a historical spot by the state and possibly by the federal government, he said.

Applications are also being made by descendants to have the land around the church, parsonage and small schoolhouse, turned into a historical area, open to the public.

Services are held every Sunday in the church, said Mrs. Gurnell, wife of the historian. She said the church and property is as active as any regular church, with meetings and group gatherings.

After approval is given to have the site and land designated as a historical area, activities of the congregation will continue unabated.

The church is considered to be an outgrowth of the Old

Dutch Church in Kingston that recorded by area historians who was instrumental in the founding of more than 32 churches in the New York area. The Kingston church dates back as 1660, with Hermanus Bloom being the first minister.

There is still a great descending "pride" in the Rhinebeck church as well as the Kingston church and other similar congregations.

The Rhinebeck descendants of the founders and first members of the old stone are positive proof with their efforts at saving the church as a historical site.

A meeting was held by a group of the descendants and trustees of the church with the historian over the weekend and they decided to continue with their efforts. A program of restoration is to be developed by the group, a spokesman said, as soon as the trustees decide on the approach to as follow.

Dutch Language Used

The Dutch language was used throughout the churches of the Amsterdam government — formed as a minister post in New York as far back as 1628.

Ordained deacons were sent out by the Dutch East India Company to act as religious leaders in the newly settled areas. They were permitted to hold "limited" services, while other churches of the faith were led by laymen who led hymn singing but could not conduct services.

In some areas, services were held in private homes, as follow.

Thruway Workers to Choose Bargaining Agent in December

A mid-December date for an election in which employees of the New York State Thruway will choose a bargaining agent to represent them, was announced today by Council 50, American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO.

Coupled with the announcement, the union demanded that the New York State Thruway Authority withdraw its request for a delay with the charge that "it is just another attempt to stall the election."

The accusation was made by Alfred Wurf, executive director of Council 50, and Pat Amateucci, president of Thruway Employees Local 1090, in a telegram to R. Burdwell Bixby, chairman of the New York State Thruway Authority.

"After much effort," the union's telegram stated, "our AFL-CIO union has finally achieved a date for the thruway employee election in mid-December, the exact date day to be set by the Public Employment Relations Board."

The telegram went on to declare "your recent demand for additional time for argument will delay the election as much as 30 days. We call upon you to withdraw your request for this delay which, in our judgement, is just an attempt to stall our election."

A delay in the election date, the union leaders contend, will bring the election past the start of the Thruway fiscal year in January and in so doing will complicate negotiations.

"Be advised that if you do not withdraw," the demand to the Thruway director stated, "we will use every type of militancy to bring the message home that Thruway employees are sick and tired of waiting."

Rodent Control Contract Okayed

It was announced today that a rodent control contract in the amount of $3,700 has been approved for the old Tenth Ward of Kingston. In making the announcement, Alderman Peter J. Fisher of the ward and a candidate for alderman from the new Fourth Ward, said that the contract took effect the first of October and will run until March of next year.

He said that a representative of the Ulster County Health Department had made an "on site" inspection of the ward in July after numerous requests from residents.

The department decided to go along with the contract after the visit, Fisher said, calling it an "immediate need."

He was notified of the approval from the New York State Department of Health, Bureau of Rodent, Insect and Weed Control, through its director, Albert T. Squire.

The necessary papers were submitted to the state office, he said through his insistence security workers.

Manpower Cut

MANILA (UPI)—The non-combat Philippine contingent in Vietnam has been cut from 2,000 to 1,500 men, military spokesmen said today. The spokesmen denied a report in Manila that a slow, quiet pullout of the Philippine Civic Action Group (Philcag) was under way. The spokesmen said budget troubles had forced the reduction. The group consists of engineers, medical teams and security workers.

Investor Forum

What to do with an inheritance of $20,000 is the exhilarating problem facing a self-employed artisan, age 32.

He will never get a pension. His insurance program is entirely inadequate. He has a term policy for $10,000.

There are four in his family. In about 10 years his two sons will be ready for college. Proper insurance protection and future funds for the sons' education are in the center of his financial plans.

Many avenues of procedure have been explored. A score of sound common stocks have been examined in this connection. But despite the protection from inflation that they bring he is not buying any.

He has bought 100 shares of Consolidated Edison $5 preferred. This assures $500 a year. He has purchased 100 shares of General Motors $5 preferred and 100 shares of American Can $1.75 preferred for $19,800. These are high-grade stocks, each earning its dividend many times over. They are selling way below their call prices.

These stocks will pay him $1,175 a year, and all of this income is to go into a 30-year endowment policy of one of America's leading life insurance companies.

The problem of this man is the problem of armies of self-employed people who often find that at age 60-70 they do not have the financial resources for their later years.

High living costs and burdensome taxes today make saving a difficult task. In America right now there are millions of underinsured individuals in the prime of their earning capacity who are saving virtually nothing. 1968-1969 would be good years to change all of this.

Most self-employed artisans periodically get a financial windfall which too often is carelessly spent.

Aux. Police Meets Tonight

Final plans will be made tonight by members of the Auxiliary Police for patrol duty on Halloween Night, Oct. 31.

The Auxiliary unit is slated for its regular meeting at the Moose Hall, 82 Prince Street, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Members also will discuss preparations for the indoor bazaar scheduled at the Moose Hall Saturday night, Nov. 16.

A full attendance of members is requested.

Dies of Injuries

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Robert Jasinski, 19, who was injured Sept. 30 when the automobile in which he was riding struck a bridge abutment, died in a hospital here Saturday.

Two other Buffalo youths, John P. Okon, 18, and Paul A. Ratajczak, died in the crash.

Insurance is made to order for free spenders. The yearly premiums force them to save.

Ten years ago a great commercial artist who made $50,000 a year during his most productive period passed away, leaving his wife practically destitute.

It would have been easy for him to carry a $100,000 20-year endowment at the time of his three-decade working life.

Every year in America thousands of people pass away unexpectedly without estates. Often they are big producers and bigger spenders.

The entire social atmosphere is conducive to such action. And unless a self-employed person disciplines himself voluntarily, he should set up a financial plan for himself that will properly control his life and his income.

THE FORUM

Question from a widow: "My husband's estate is $40,000. I need $5,400 a year income. How can I get it?"

Answer: Perhaps you should buy an annuity. Consult a good insurance man.

Fashion on Top: It's Hair on Hair

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—When one thing is good all by itself is twice as much twice as good?

You would think so, the way women are piling one pile of hair onto another this season.

A fashion craze or two ago women were cropping their locks to their ears, or indeed their skulls. Or they were ironing out yards of it straight, and stern, and bouffant.

Then within a wink the kink was back. Obstinate, or so it appeared, as soon as each female had obtained the perfection of severity and straightness, she was determined to swing the pendulum to the extreme.

Perhaps the black beauties started the trend towards curl by deciding not to follow slavishly the style dictates of whites and instead to wear their hair naturally, and profusely curly, the way of their heritage.

The effect was so startlingly fresh and dramatic that many envious whites were undergoing the tortures of tiny permanent rods, or were vigorously back-combing their hair without ever smoothing off the surface.

That was "fur" enough for summer, but not for winter.

Now the trend is to top one layer of hair with another. Nor does it matter really whether the hair is nature's own, or manufactured in the test tubes of textile laboratories, as long as it is a hat.

The effect is the thing. And the test is whether or not it is busy or wooly.

The fur hat madness also has its roots in the fun fur coat vogue. The same time that somebody up there in high fashion decreed that it was perfectly all right to wear bunnies instead of minks it was determined that chapeaux should match.

The proliferation of cheapie furs has had a democratizing effect on fashion throughout. If it was dandy to wear a bunny spotted like a leopard, it suddenly seemed acceptable to those who worry about such things to wrap themselves or top themselves in warmth and wooliness of fake furs. (To some with compunctions about wearing animal skins, the pretend furs offered the beauty and practicality of fur without limiting the animal population.)

As a result every milliner of consequence has a lot of fuzzy ideas about furs and non-furs for the cold weather days ahead. Some conservatives cling to traditional berets and toques for furs while more adventurous designers are adapting military caps to hairy pelt.

Indeed there is hardly a hat shape today, be it the romantic, big-brimmed calendar hat or the petite pea beanie, that is not bristly, bushy, woolly, kinky, curly, or sleekly hairy.

This is beautiful in itself. But the cost is also beautiful. Non-status fur hats are not expensive, of course, and non-fur hats are certainly not.

Add one pile of hair on top of another in the name of fashion and you have a warm-headed season ahead.

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

A couple of letters recently published in the correspondence columns of a newspaper made me think that what we need is definitions. One letter objected to a meeting addressed by Senator Abraham Ribicoff because the audience was composed of "McCarthyites and their fellow travelers," the Hippies, Yuppies, and members of SDS. These people, the writer declared, consider themselves revolutionaries with no program. Candidates who solicit their votes would find that "chaos, anarchy, and nihilism" would result from their successful efforts.

Chaos we have always with us. We use the word loosely perhaps: when the wind blows the leaves in a great whirlwind round and round; New York crosstown traffic on a busy day seems near to chaotic; a kitten with a ball of yarn brings chaos into the parlor. Anarchy and nihilism are something else again. The anarchist wants to govern himself with no help from the State; the nihilist wants to abolish the State by force if necessary. It is extremely unlikely that any supporters of Senator McCarthy much less the Senator himself hold such advanced views. Yet people throw epithets like "anarchist," etc., around, using them as bad names to beat someone they do not like.

The other letter I read also took exception to the SDS in its relationship to Columbia University. A young man named Mark Rudd, it seemed, was trying to establish his ideas with the aid of a bullhorn. I do not find bullhorn in the only dictionary I have handy, but I wonder if it differs from what we used to call a megaphone. Bullhorn sounds more disagreeable, but maybe it is just the same old device for making people listen to what you have to say.

Anyway, there is Mark Rudd, the letter writer said, and possibly 500 or so adherents to his point of view. And there are the 16,500 students of the university out of a possible 17,000 who presumably do not agree with him. Since this letter appeared, the report of the Cox Commission has been published and it seems pretty clear that the percentage of persons unhappy about Columbia is much higher than our letter writer allowed. But whatever the percentage here, not only of bullhorn—from the newspaper pictures it looks like a megaphone to me—but of patriotism which in letters of this sort is likely to be invoked.

Let it be said at once that a patriot can use a bullhorn, just as a patriot can attend a rally for Senator Ribicoff. Consulting the dictionary again, a patriot is one who loves his country. He may intend to vote for Governor Wallace, he may have applauded Mayor Daley's police at the Chicago convention, he may be a member of the John Birch society. If he loves his country he is a patriot; and by the same token if he cheers for Senator Ribicoff, if he wants the Vietnam war to end now, today, he is entitled under the rules to be just as patriotic as any of his opposite numbers.

Once we admit the dictionary into our discussions, it is clear that we need to think further before calling our opponents names.

Candidates' Wives Say — 'Vote and Wear a Flower'

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Pat Nixon and Muriel Humphrey are urging American women to strengthen our democracy by exercising their precious right to vote November 5.

After you vote, they add, show it proudly by wearing a fresh flower on Election Day.

Each presidential candidate's wife has personally endorsed the Society of American Florists' non-partisan "Vote and Wear a Flower" program. Florists will give away millions of flowers to early-morning voters at polling stations and florist shops in many sections of the nation this Election Day.

A radiant Muriel Humphrey wore a golden pompon chrysanthemum and called upon every American woman to cast her vote this Election Day. In a recent exclusive interview with Shirley Foster Fields, writer for the Society of American Florists, she said:

"The Nineteenth Amendment first enabled women to vote in national elections in 1920. Those ardent suffragettes who braved public disapproval, and even family disapproval on occasion, might find it hard to understand the lack of universal participation by women in elections today. Correspondingly, foreigners, whose countries do not yet allow universal suffrage, cannot believe that the opportunity denied them, is so casually disregarded by many American women.

"The complexity of today's government is such," Mrs. Humphrey said, "that no voter can fail to have a personal, immediate concern with at least one issue. The most important way to affect these issues is to exercise your vote on November 5."

Pat Nixon, boutonniere with a pink carnation for her interview with the Society, said she hopes there will be a record voter turnout this November.

"In many parts of the world," she declared, "I have seen people who have no voice in their government and no choice among candidates for public office. We have both a voice and a choice, yet we sometimes take that for granted. We sometimes forget what a precious right it is to be able to walk into the polling booth and vote. In fact,

I have been told that in the last elections one out of every three women stayed at home.

"I hope there will be a record turnout this November," Mrs. Nixon said. "If we were all as dedicated and enthusiastic as the many young people I have met, I am sure there will be. These young people—both Trica's and Julie's friends who come to our home and those I have talked to during the campaign—are seriously concerned about the problems of our country and committed to doing something about them."

"I am particularly encouraged that so many people are taking part in our campaign. I would guess that from one half to one third of our crowds are made up of people under thirty. This makes me very hopeful for the future of our country."

Mrs. Nixon pointed out that eight years from now the United States will celebrate the 200th anniversary of the American Revolution. "Our votes in this election," she said, "will determine what kind of a nation America will be on its 200th birthday."

PAT NIXON proudly wears a pink carnation to signify her endorsement of the "Vote and Wear a Flower" program. Florists in many parts of the nation are cooperating in local non-partisan "get-out-the-vote" drives by giving away millions of flowers to early morning voters November 5, Election Day.

A RADIANT Muriel Humphrey urges American women to vote November 5, saying: "It could be possible for the woman vote to sway an election if women generally felt very strongly about an issue." Mrs. Humphrey wears a golden pompon chrysanthemum, symbol of her personal support of the "Vote and Wear a Flower" program.

Horticultural Schools Are Slated

The Federated Garden Clubs of New York State, Inc. will present the second in a series of four Horticultural Schools for judges and exhibitors at the Reformed Church in New Paltz on Nov. 6, 7, and 8. The school is being planned by a committee headed by Mrs. David Rosenbaum of Pine Bush with Mrs. Charles Doscher of New York City, Mrs. Thomas Waterman of New Hyde Park and Mrs. W. R. King of Schenectady as advisors.

On Wednesday, Nov. 6, Mrs. King who is State Federation corresponding secretary, will open the school at 9:45 a.m. Mrs. A. Keith Smiley Jr. of Lake Mohonk will lecture on general botanical terms and background for horticultural judges. Mrs. Smiley received a BS in botany from Douglas College and her MS from Cornell University. Landscaping School. She is a well known lecturer and author on conservation, horticulture and landscape design. She is a member of the New Paltz Garden Club and a Life Member of the State Federation.

In the afternoon session on Wednesday, Mrs. Waterman who is the New York State Horticulture School Chairman will give a short presentation on the responsibilities and ethics of judging followed by a lecture on the culture, classification, exhibition and judging of coniferous evergreens by Mrs. Smiley.

Mrs. Kenneth B. Robinson, Third District Director, will open the Thursday morning session after which Martin F. Flayter will lecture on the culture, classification, exhibition and judging of pot plants. Flayter who is presently Director of the Queens Botanical Gardens received degrees in Ornamental Horticulture and Botany from a Berlin University in Germany as well as from Columbia University. Flayter has been active in research and teaching as well as in writing horticulture articles of value to amateurs and professionals alike.

At the Thursday afternoon session Mrs. Rosenbaum will introduce John F. Peters to lecture on chrysanthemums. Peters, a past president of the Westchester Chapter of the National Chrysanthemum Society, in addition to being winner of numerous trophies and ribbons for his fine horticulture specimens, is an accredited National Chrysanthemum Society judge.

For those taking the school for credit toward a judging certificate, examinations will take place on Friday starting at 9:30 a.m. These examinations are optional and garden club members have been urged to attend the lectures for their own pleasure and education, for the schools are not limited to those wishing to become judges.

Registrations for the course are being handled by Mrs. Richard Klitz, 45 Elting Avenue, New Paltz. Brochures with complete information about the school may also be obtained by request from Mrs. Klitz.

Ellenville Chapter Has Anniversary

Major Dwight Divine Chapter, Daughters of the Union, 1861-65, of Ellenville, celebrated the 35th anniversary of its founding on Tuesday, Oct. 22, at Wenig's Restaurant with Mrs. Denny Tilley regent general, of Columbus, Ind., as honored guest.

Mrs. Albert Potts of Forest Hills, national and former state officer, was present also. Twenty-five members and guests attended.

Miss Marion Rose, regent, acting as master of ceremonies, introduced the honored guests including Mrs. Oretta Town, the only daughter of a Civil War veteran who was able to be present. Other daughters include Mrs. Chester Young, daughter of Major Dwight Divine, and Mrs. Florence DuVall of Chatham, N. J.

The four charter members are Miss Nellie Newkirk, Mrs. Chester Young of Napamoch, and the Misses Alice and Ethel Sherman of Marlinton, of whom only Miss Newkirk was in attendance.

After the luncheon a program took place which included soloist Miss Linda Cointot who was accompanied by Miss Mary Ellen Greco. She presented a selection of old war songs from the War of 1812 to the present time.

Four new members were installed by the regent general, Mrs. Tilley. They were Mrs. Eleanor Craft, Mrs. Chandler Young, Mrs. Meredith Kile and Mrs. Thelma Countryman, Mrs.

Lena Bilyeu substituted for her sister, Mrs. Countryman.

After the installation, Miss Katherine Terwilliger, town historian, gave a lecture, illustrated with slides, about old Ellenville during Civil War days. A number of old stone houses in and around Ellenville were included.

In April 1967 the National Convention was held in Kingston and the out-of-town visitors were impressed by the city's old stone houses and the care that has been taken for their preservation.

Anyone interested in organizing a chapter or joining the Major Dwight Divine Chapter is requested to contact Miss Marion Rose, 19 Park Street, Ellenville. All female descendants of Civil War veterans are eligible.

Special Religious Program Scheduled

Members of the Women's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Service Guild of St. James Church, Fair and Pearl Streets, Kingston, will participate this week in one of the most important observances of United Methodist women throughout the United States.

The "Call to Prayer and Self-Denial," initiated in 1887, focuses on guided mission study, a much needed offering for special world and national projects, and a deepened spiritual life. More than 1,541,500 women in 33,000 societies and guilds in all 50 states will join in the observance.

The Call is sponsored by the Women's Division of The United Methodist Board of Missions. The Division, one of the four and the Quiet Day service from major units of the Board of 10 to 11:15 a.m. at St. James Missions, is the national body Church.

through which all local Women's Societies and Guilds function.

The theme of the 1968 Call to Prayer and Self-Denial is "Christ, the Giver of Life," inspired by the opportunities to be made possible by gifts this week and the study, Coming to Life, by Dr. Ernest W. Saunders, dean of Garrett Theological Seminary and professor of New Testament Interpretation.

The two major events of the observance are the Program Meeting for interpretation of mission projects for which a special offering will be made, and the Quiet Day, a service of prayer, meditation, and a silent meal.

The program meeting for women will be held from 10 to 11:15 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 30th. The Division, one of the four and the Quiet Day service from major units of the Board of 10 to 11:15 a.m. at St. James Missions, is the national body Church.

Children Aiding Children Through UNICEF

Beginning this past weekend and continuing throughout this week, children and youth of Kingston joined more than 3.5 million other American boys and girls in celebrating National UNICEF Day on Oct. 31. The form of celebration was visits to different homes by Trick or Treaters but instead of "tricks" of candy or apples there was a request for coins and contributions of money to help support the work of the Nobel Peace Prize-winning United Nations Children's Fund.

The Kingston Area Council of Churches is sponsoring this community-wide collection through the children and youth of its member congregations. The receipts will enable the continuation of more than 500 long-range programs in over 100 countries. All this is done with a budget equivalent to what is spent on world armament in two hours of one day. The contributions people give will save many children's lives. Members of the church societies of the three Methodist churches in Kingston gathered Sunday at 1:30 p.m. prior to departing for collections. Youth of the First Baptist Church were collecting Friday and Saturday evenings. Other children and youth of community churches will be engaged in this important program this week.

UNICEF Trick or Treaters can be identified by their official collection boxes: an orange and black container with a small symbol of a mother and child. Only children carrying such a carton will be authorized.

Some 900 million children in the developing countries, that is three out of every four, lack medical attention, proper and enough nutritious food and adequate education. The member churches of the Kingston Area Council of Churches urge all citizens to participate in this campaign for they will be making possible through their contributions an opportunity for many more children to grow up healthy and to receive the skills to lead useful and productive lives.

Need Second Living Room?

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Give your bedroom a new look. A bed-sitting room is one idea within the limits of good taste, says well-known decorating expert, David Eugene Bell. Bell engineered a new look in a bedroom decorated in a model home at Hyannis, Mass. He put of one dram of boric acid and the bed right in the middle of Cotton squares soaked in witch eight ounces of witch hazel, soak cotton in the solution, and apply to the enlarged pore area.

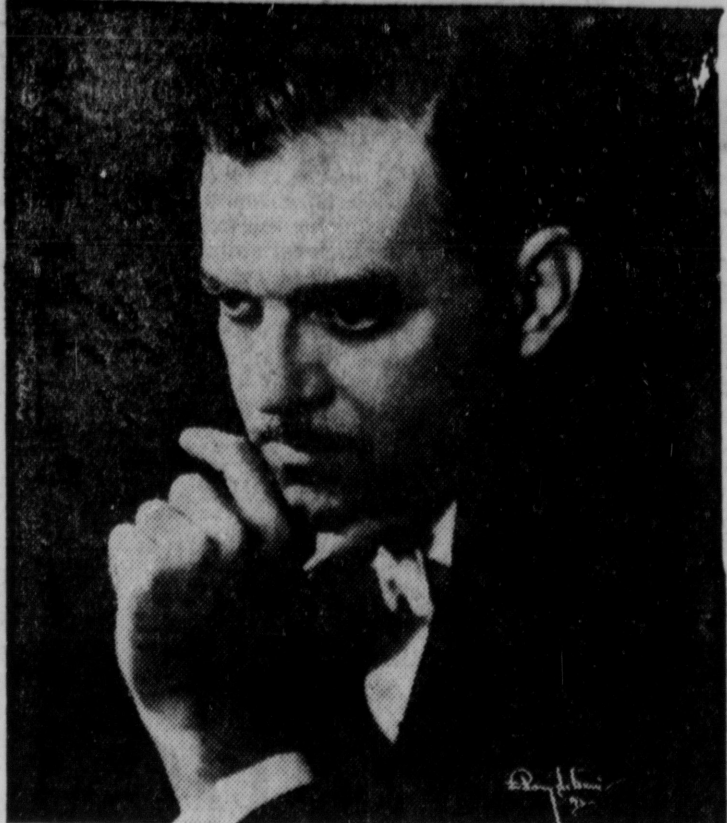

bedspread, chair cushions and draped table cover. Bedrooms are larger because of the trend to use them as bed-sitting rooms—this one is 13 feet by 14 feet—"But we are furnishing more bedrooms in the sitting-room fashion, no matter what their size," points out Bell, long-time director of interior decoration at Bloomingdale's store. The four model homes dressed at Hyannis follow the new concept of private entrances. Many have balconies off the bedroom. Bell likes the open-architectural idea, but sometimes there is no point to it, he says. He had noted in one split-level house that there was a full view of the living room if one looked over a partition while coming down the stairs. Why? It solved nothing, so he prevailed upon the builder to wall it up with bookcases. Now, the 18-foot height next to the fireplace has shelves of books, antiques, paintings on the outside of some of the shelves for a different look. If you want to get to the top shelf, use the ladder propped next to it. Bell antiqued an ordinary painter's ladder. In addition to the two split-level dwellings, he furnished two Cape Cod houses. He notes that they're done "without cobbler's benches or spinning wheels," just country style furniture that is timeless. He went wild in children's rooms, providing lots of color and pattern in comfortable easy-care furnishings.

Community Concert Series Resume Tuesday

JORGE BOLET, keyboard artist, who was stricken suddenly Friday in New York City, and will be replaced by Theodore Lettvin, concert pianist, for the Community Concert series which opens tomorrow (Tuesday) in the Community Theatre. Concert time is 8:30 p. m. Admission is by subscription ticket only. All subscriptions have been mailed to Community Concerts' subscribers.

The Community Concert series will open as scheduled Tuesday night at the Community Theatre despite last minute developments involving the artist. On Friday Jorge Bolet, renowned concert pianist, who was scheduled to open the program, was suddenly stricken ill and rushed to a New York City hospital. No word has been received to date about his condition but all of Bolet's concert appearances have been cancelled.

The Community Concert Association office in New York City and John McCullough, president of the local chapter, were hard at work all weekend and Mr. McCullough now announces that substituting for Bolet Tuesday night will be Theodore Lettvin, concert piano virtuoso, who made his orchestral debut at the young age of 12.

Mr. Lettvin was born in Chicago and began his musical studies at the age of four with his mother, a piano teacher. His sister and two brothers were also studying music and to say the house was filled with music would be an understatement.

Mr. Lettvin made his orchestral debut at the age of 12 playing the Mendelssohn Concerto with the Chicago Symphony under the baton of the late Frederick Stock.

When he was 15 years old, he won a scholarship to the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia where he studied for the next seven years with two world renowned artists, Mieczyslaw Horszowski and Rudolf Serkin.

His career was interrupted by World War II when he joined the U.S. Navy. Mr. Lettvin went on a concert tour that took him to many parts of the world and won for him many national and international recognitions and awards including the Naumburg and Michael's Memorial Awards. He was also acclaimed Laureate of the Queen Elizabeth of Belgium Contest. In addition to his recital tours Mr. Lettvin appeared regularly with the major orchestras of the United States. Among them were the New York Philharmonic and the Orchestras of Cleveland, Chicago, Boston, Dallas, Cincinnati and Buffalo, where he was an apprentice-conductor under William Steinberg. He appeared at the inauguration of the New York Philharmonic Promenades in the summer of 1964 with Andre Kostelanetz who invited him to return the following season. He has also appeared with the New York Philharmonic under Steinberg playing the American Premiere of Bartok's Scherzo for Piano and Orchestra.

During the past 18 years Mr. Lettvin has appeared in more than 800 concerts. He is, at present, a professor of piano at the New England Conservatory in Boston where he resides with his wife and three children when he is not concertizing.

Doing the Right Thing

By EMILY L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute
LADIES VERSUS WOMEN

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently when I corrected a person for saying "the lady I saw on the street" and "the lady who sews for me," she referred me to the dictionary. I maintain a sophisticated person uses the word "woman." Surely no cultured person would say "my lady friend" or "my gentleman friend." I would very much like to have your opinion.—Mrs. B.

Dear Mrs. B.: It depends a little on whether you wish to appear "sophisticated" or "cultured." To me "cultured" means well educated and acting in good taste, and this is far more important than sophistication. The first definition of a "lady" in the College Standard Dictionary is "a refined and well-bred woman." You have no way of knowing whether a friend you pass on the street is refined or not—therefore she should be referred to by the generic term "woman." The fact that someone does a service for you is no reason to assume that she is not, in addition to being a woman, a lady. I refer to the woman who housecleans for me as a "lady" because she is one. In the old-fashioned sense, a lady might have had to fit the part of the second definition, which says, "a woman of superior position in society." Today we do not worry about those values as much as the attributes of character which make a true lady. Possibly the most apt description of a lady I have heard is the one which says, "a lady is a woman in whose presence a man feels and acts like a gentleman."

Sister-In-Law Calls at Funeral
Dear Mrs. Post: My dear mother recently passed away. At the funeral, my sister-in-law really took over. All the mourners sat together. I sat next to my devoted husband, who flew to Chicago to help me. This sister-in-law roughly pulled me out of my chair and shoved me down next to my brother. She said in a loud, rough voice, "This is how we do it here."

I say my brother should have attended his wife and let my husband care for me. Wouldn't it have been better to let me be wrong, if I was, than to cause a scene at such a sad event? Are there special rules on this subject in Chicago, or are they the same in California? Love and kindness seem to be our idea of good manners.—Linda

Dear Linda: Fortunately one cannot condemn Chicago for the actions of one person and there is plenty of love and kindness there, too. Your sister-in-law acted in the most inconsiderate manner. Mourners should always be accompanied by those who can offer the most comfort and should have allowed you to sit where you wished. Even had she been right about seating, she should have suggested the burden, the need to do something actively can help him return to normal life. However, many people receive more notes than they can cope with and your idea is a most thoughtful one. At the end of your message of sympathy say, "please don't answer this—I know you have more than you can do, and I will see you soon in any case." Mrs. John Alley led the devotions, reading from Virginia Cary Hudson's book "Close Your Eyes When Praying."

Mrs. James Shelhorse was in charge of the program. She, assisted by Mrs. Sadith Schley, gave a Mozart recital. They played two of Mozart's Sonatas, one written in 1771 in D Major and the other in 1774 in E Flat Minor. Mrs. Shelhorse gave a sketch of Wolfgang Mozart's life. He was born in 1756, a frail child. When he was three he began showing musical talent. His father, recognizing it, gave him his own advantage the family could afford. He began composing at the age of eight.

Kingston Downs Gloversville 13-6

By DENNIS R. CARO

(Freeman Sports Staff)

The Kingston High School football team, sparked by two crucial goal line stands, edged Gloversville 13-6 Saturday in a tough defensive battle.

Quarterback Mike Hoffman found Fred Kachura wide open in the end zone on a quick flare out for the first touchdown and Marshall Byrd slammed off tackle from five yards out for the other, but the offensive heroics of the normally high scoring "Fighting Maroons" were almost eclipsed by their defensive play deep in their own territory.

Gloversville quarterback Jack Brunner, sending his powerful running backs through the middle of the Kingston line and then countering with pitchouts and screen passes, had the Maroon linebackers coming and going as he led the Huskies on two long first half drives.

But on neither occasion was he able to find the right combination after the situation had become first and goal to go.

The initial Kingston drive fizzled, and when a high snap foiled Dale Whitman's punt attempt Gloversville took over at midfield.

Fumble on the Four

Nine plays later it was first and goal from the Kingston four-yard line. On play number 10, Brunner found himself handcuffed on a bad snap and Mike Perry recovered for Kingston.

Byrd broke loose for 37 yards on an end sweep and reeled in 40-yard semi-bomb from Hoffman before the Maroon started over from his own 21 yard line.

Sixteen plays later, it was first down and goal to go from the Kingston nine, and the nose of the football was a bare six inches away from the goal line when the Maroon took over on downs for the last play of the half.

Gloversville took the second half kickoff on its own 27 yard line, and Brunner, starting in where he had left off, moved the Huskies to the Kingston 25 in 10 plays.

Then, after losing seven yards on a busted play, the weak-armed senior quarterback tried to get cute. His short screen passes had kept the Kingston defense off balance throughout the first half and he attempted to counter with a short one over the middle.

Rick Sorenson was hanging on the play. He picked the ball off cleanly and his 43-yard runback gave the Maroon the momentum they needed. Hoffman climaxed the 32 yard drive with the quick flare out to Kachura.

Sorenson turned goat on the next series when he was called for clipping while the Gloversville punt was still in the air. The penalty restored possession to the Huskies, and Brunner made good use of it. Two plays later he hit Dan Nicklory with a quick pass over the middle, and the burley end romped 23 yards into the end zone.

With the score tied, Eddie Adams returned the ensuing kickoff 40 yards to the Gloversville 49, and with the aid of a 15 yard pass interference penalty Kingston marched into the end zone on eight plays.

Rick Sorenson passed to Joe Holland for the extra point on a fake kick attempt and all the points that were going to be scored were on the board.

The Maroon kept the Huskies inside their own 30 yard line for the rest of the game.

Foreman: Symbol of American Domination

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Big George Foreman stood there in the center of the ring, a tiny American flag clutched in his huge black fist; a battered, bleeding Russian hulking nearby—a near-perfect symbol of American domination of the 19th Olympic Games.

Foreman, a 6-foot-3, 218-pounder, held aloft the little flag—a broad grin on his face—as he accepted America's record 45th gold medal after demolishing Iones Cepulis for the heavy-weight boxing championship, the last event on the last full day of competition in the trouble-riddled Games.

Iceing on the Cake

His victory was icing on the cake for the Yankee team which collected a total of 107 medals and clearly outscored the Soviets in total medals for the first time since the Russians entered the Games at Helsinki in 1952. Russia finished with a total of 92 medals, 30 of them gold. In 1964 at Tokyo Russia led in total medals 96-90 while the United States led in golds, 36-30.

Naturally enough, there was an excuse for the Russian showing this year. It came from Gabriel Korobkov, the Soviet's track and field coach.

"Most of the world lives downstairs," he said, referring to the 7,347-foot altitude of Mexico City. "It throws the Games out of balance."

Perhaps a more accurate explanation would be found in the almost incredible performance of the United States' swimming and diving team, along with the gymnastic exploits of Vera Caslavskaya of Czechoslovakia—the sweetheart of the Games—and Japan, which cut heavily into the Russian potential total.

The United States' swimmers and divers bagged 23 of the 33 gold medals and a total of 47 of the 89 medals up for grabs. Twelve more golds came in men's track and field, and three more in women's track and field—where the Russians failed to score a single gold.

The Americans also picked up two golds in boxing, two in sailing, one each in shooting and equestrian. And Henry Iba's superbly coached, pick-up basketball team, spurned by many of the top collegiate stars, continued its unbeaten string.

The U.S. basketball squad won the gold in convincing fashion, whipping Yugoslavia 65-50 in the final game behind the superlative play of Spencer Haywood.

Sawyers Rip Cadets 26-0 in DCSL Clash

By GEORGE TOMSON

(Freeman Sports Staff)

RHINEBECK — Saugerties fullback Roger Praetorius spoiled "Homecoming Day" hopes at Cardinal Farley Saturday, scoring three touchdowns and an extra point to lead the Sawyers to a 26-0 rout.

The Saugerties defense allowed the Cadets only 77 yards on total offense, and Farley managed to get the ball out of its own territory only on punts.

In the second quarter the Sawyers took a punt on their own 32 yard line, and Praetorius proceeded to break loose up the middle on the first play from scrimmage for a 68 yard touchdown romp. He also scored the extra point.

Farley punted again in the second quarter, and Saugerties moved quickly from its own 40 to the Cadet 35 yard line.

With time running out, coach

Fred Seither called for the "polecat" formation, which spreads linemen and backs across the length of the field and which makes the center an eligible receiver, and quarterback Holley Carnright hit end Randy Flore with a 35 yard touchdown pass.

Farley attempted an onside kick to open the third period and Saugerties took over on its own 42. Halfback Mark Ishkanian skirted the end for eight yards and Mike Turek went off tackle for eight more. The Sawyers continued to drive to the Cadet 30 where Praetorius put the game out of reach with a 30 yard scoring run up the middle. Mike Turek belted over for the extra point to make the score 20-0.

Fourth period action saw Tom Regan of Farley attempting to start a Farley drive with two six yard gains, but soon the Sawyers had the ball on the Farley 30 after a bad punt. Two plays later Holley Carnright found Praetorius open in the end zone and hit him with a 10 yard pass.

Neither team was able to mount a drive in the fourth period.

Hawks Shade Geneseo 4-3

NEW Paltz — The State

University soccer squad edged Geneseo 4-3 in double overtime here Saturday, as sophomore inside Bobby Hippy scored the crucial goals and setup a third. The Hawks dominated the entire game, taking 48 shots to 22 for the Blue Knights, but series of breakaways gave Geneseo a 2-0 lead late in the third period.

Nelson Willey scored the first one for Geneseo, swooping in on reserve goalie Tim Flannagan unassisted at the ten minute mark of the second period.

With 3:15 gone in the third, Danny Pope duplicated Willey's trick as the inexperienced Flannagan again waited for the shot and was caught hanging.

New Paltz came back at the 16:45 mark of the third period, when right wing Clement Mbadinju lofted a high twisting corner kick that sank perfectly into the nets.

Hippy tied the game with 17:30 gone in the third period, when he connected on his fifth consecutive penalty kick, but 25 seconds later the driving Hawks were again caught short, and

Bob Crumb broke away and scored Geneseo's third unassisted goal. With a little more than a minute gone in the fourth period, Hippy tallied his second goal, driving around two Geneseo defenders and walking the ball past goalie Randy Kniffen.

The score remained tied through the first five minute overtime period, and Hawk coach Bobby Durkin, in effort to add more scoring punch, moved center fullback Pete Kane in as a fifth forward. With only 45 seconds gone in the second overtime period, Durkin's strategy paid off, with Hippy feeding Kane for the winning goal.

Aldo Forte, normally the starting goalie, played the entire game at center halfback, his natural position as Durkin broke even in the strategy department.

Geneseo had been ranked number two in the State University of New York Athletic Conference, and the Hawks, who have fared poorly in conference play this year even their state slate at 2-2-1. They are 6-2-1 overall.

Billy Joe-Snell Combo
Blasts Patriots, 48-14

NEW YORK (UPI)—Billy Joe ran for three touchdowns and Matt Snell scored twice as New York's defense had little trouble stopping the punchless Boston Patriots for a 48-14 victory Sunday that kept the Jets in sole possession of first place in the American Football League's Eastern Division.

The Jets intercepted five beat New York, a streak dating back to 1965. Snell's second touchdown, which gave the Jets an insurmountable 20-0 lead, was set up when Taliaferro, who was intercepted four times in a game with the Jets earlier this season, fumbled in the third period after being hit by Gerry Phibbin.

Colt Defense
Shocks Rams

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Forgotten Five Plus One isn't a Dixieland band, just some offensive linemen whose play sounded a happy note for the Baltimore Colts in the National Football League.

"The only time our offensive line gets publicized is when we face the Rams or we break down on a play," tackle Sam Ball said Sunday after he and his mates sparked the Colts to a 27-10 victory over Los Angeles in the Coastal Division.

In a key game tonight, the struggling Green Bay Packers, bidding for a fourth straight NFL title, meet the Cowboys in Dallas.

A victory would move the Packers, 2-3-1, into a first-place tie with Detroit in the Central Division. A loss will leave them in last place. Dallas will be gunning for a 7-0 record and for a measure of revenge against the Packers, who have beaten them in the last two league championship games.

Elsewhere in the NFL Sunday, San Francisco, 4-3, upset Detroit, 3-3-1, 14-7; Chicago, 3-4, surprised Minnesota, 3-4, 26-24; St. Louis, 4-3, beat New Orleans, 3-4, 31-17; Cleveland, 4-3, trounced Atlanta, 1-6, 30-7; New York Giants, 5-2, edged Washington, 3-4, 13-10, and Pittsburgh, 1-6, topped Philadelphia, 0-7, 3-0.

Passing or Running
Suits Kaycee to 'T'

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

In the air or on the ground, either way suits the Kansas City Chiefs to a T, and that is spelling nothing but trouble for their rivals San Diego and Oakland in the American Football League.

The Chiefs and Coach Hank Stram revered to the old tight T against Oakland a week ago Sunday. They did not throw a pass, grinding out yardage on the ground, and the Raiders failed miserably as Kansas City strengthened its first place hold in the Western Division.

This past Sunday, the Chiefs returned to a balanced attack against San Diego Len Dawson threw for one touchdown, and Bob Holmes and Mike Garrett ran for two others enroute to a 27-20 victory over the Chargers.

Stram's club has won seven of eight games while Oakland and San Diego are tied for second, at 5-2, 1½ games behind.

Oakland moved up from third place with a 31-10 victory over Cincinnati, breaking a two-game losing streak after 14 straight triumphs.

Using the pro T with split ends and flankers, instead of three running backs, the Chiefs moved 66 yards midway through the final period winning touchdown. Dawson passed 39 yards to Frank Pitts for openers and Garrett closed it with a 13-yard scoring dash for a 24-20 lead.

Jan Stenerud, tying a club record, kicked his 21st field goal of the season from 37 yards out with 3½ minutes left for the final points.

Dawson's passes also set up Holmes' scoring run before he hit Pitts on a 55-yard touchdown aerial.

John Hadl passed for two San Diego scores, but four of his tosses were intercepted, two of them setting up field goals and the last by Jim Kearney ending the Chargers' final chance on the Kansas City five with less than two minutes to play.

Darley Lamonica picked up Oakland with three scoring passes of 15 and 2 yards to Fred Biletnikoff and seven yards to Roger Hagberg, who also ran seven yards for a score.

Don Trull, filling in for ailing Pete Beathard, hurled touchdown passes of 23 and 43 yards to Alvin Reed, and Wayne Walker kicked three field goals in Houston's victory.

Marlin Briscoe, taking over for ineffective Steve Tensi, sparked Denver from behind a 14-0 deficit in the second half as he ran for two scores, including a 10-yard sneak for the winning touchdown with two minutes left. Bob Griese pitched two scoring passes for Miami.

beat New York, a streak dating back to 1965.

Snell's second touchdown, which gave the Jets an insurmountable 20-0 lead, was set up when Taliaferro, who was intercepted four times in a game with the Jets earlier this season, fumbled in the third period after being hit by Gerry Phibbin.

Carl McAdams recovered for New York on the Patriot 43 and after two Joe Namath to George Sauer passes accounted for all but the final yard, Snell bucked over for the score.

McAdams was Johnny-on-the-spot again in a wild final quarter when he recovered a fumble by reserve quarterback Tom Sherman on the Patriot 7. Joe scored his first touchdown on the next play and followed with two more TD's within the next 10 minutes to climax a 28-point Jet outburst in the fourth quarter.

Boston's first score came on a 87-yard pass play from Sherman to Jim Whalen and the Patriots ended the scoring with only 59 seconds left to play when Sherman hit Bob Scarpitto with a 32-yard scoring strike.

Snell opened the scoring with a one-yard run at only 3:36 after the opening kickoff. The score was set up on Namath's passes of 20 yards to Sauer and 23 yards to Emerson Boozer, Namath's substitute, Babe Parelli, scored New York's final TD on a two-yard run early in the fourth quarter. Jim Turner accounted for the rest of the Jet scoring with 12 and 23 yard field goals and six extra points.

Back in Own League,
Giants Scalp Redskins

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rookie Bob Duhon accounted for 56 yards of an 80-yard fourth period touchdown drive Sunday as the New York Giants squeezed out a 13-10 victory over the Washington Redskins.

The drive, which began in the third period, consumed 10 minutes and wiped out the Redskins lead achieved earlier when a blocked Giant punt produced a Washington touchdown.

Duhon carried eight times and caught three passes in the 16 plays needed for the touchdown march, which was helped by a 13-yard interference penalty which put the ball on the Washington two. Three players later Tucker Frederickson piled over from the one for the score.

Prior to that, the Giants—with Fran Tarkenton having a bad passing day—had been able to score only on two field goals by Pete Gogolak.

The Redskins moved in front 10-3 on the fourth play of the third quarter when Walt Barnes blocked Willie Williams' punt deep in Giant territory and Ken Barefoot ran the ball in from eight yards out.

Gogolak's 18-yard boot late in the period cut the margin to 10-6 and set the stage for Duhon's workhorse performance.

Charley Gogolak, Pete's brother, missed on a 42-yard field goal that would have tied the score with 14 seconds left in the game.

Neither team could muster a touchdown in the second half.

Parseghian Says Officials Blew Call on Hanratty

SOUTH BEND, IND. (UPI)—Notre Dame coach Ara Parseghian said Sunday he could not understand how the officials missed calling pass interference on Michigan State in the closing minutes of the Spartan win Saturday.

"On third down we had (Jim) Seymour moving into the open in the end zone," he said. "And (Terry) Hanratty already had released the ball when the defensive back just tackled Seymour."

"Everybody in the press box and the stadium and saw it, and the officials didn't, I guess. I hate to have a game hinge on an official's call. But we either had a touchdown if Seymour isn't tackled or we got the ball first down on the 1 yard line if interference is called."

"Instead it's fourth down and we didn't make it. It was upsetting. It wasn't a judgment call either. With five officials, nothing should be uncalled."

Jim Dorey got his first National Hockey League goal at 9:46 and Floyd Smith tied the game 2-2 just 31 seconds later at 10:17.

O'Dwyer Charges Javits Backed LBJ on Viet War

NEW YORK (AP) — Democratic Senatorial candidate Paul O'Dwyer has accused incumbent Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits of supporting the Johnson Administration "in every escalation of the war" in Vietnam through 1966.

Javits contended that he broke with the administration in Feb. 1967 when he called for a "cessation in bombing down to the demilitarized zone."

The two appeared Sunday with Conservative candidate James L. Buckley on WABC-TV. O'Dwyer said that he had been seeking peace in Vietnam two years before Javits. "That was 26,000 casualties ago," he said.

Javits said that at that time O'Dwyer was only "a City Councilman after all—and that's it."

The Senator said he favors inclusion in peace negotiations of the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong. He said the United States should abide by free elections in Vietnam, if a cease-fire is obtained there.

"We must accept whatever is the result of self-determination," Javits said.

Buckley said if the United States pulled out of Vietnam, the whole Southeast Asian peninsula would be lost to Communism. Accused of believing the "domino theory," he said that the nations of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization believe it too and expect the United States to fulfill its commitments.

Javits said "We are facing in-surection" in the inner cities of America. If nothing is done to improve the standard of living there.

Buckley said business was "the greatest anti-poverty agent." He called for tax incentives for firms providing training and jobs for the unemployed.

He blamed inflation on the Johnson administration which "squandered untold millions" on welfare programs. Buckley said Javits supported those programs.

Buckley said the city's experiment with school decentralization had ignored the rights of teachers and "unleashed a torrent of hate, anti-Semitism and worse."

Earlier O'Dwyer had said if the Vietnam war ends, the United States must be prepared to spend huge sums to prevent a depression and massive unemployment.

He spoke on WABC radio, and he said he would not support the presidential candidacy of Vice President Humphrey, even if Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy decides to do so. O'Dwyer supported McCarthy's campaign for the Democratic nomination.

Ribicoff Seeks Republican Votes In Face of Democratic Rebellion

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, in trouble in his own Democratic party, is banking on Republicans and independents in his drive for re-election to a second term.

His Republican opponent, Edwin H. May Jr., a former one-term Congressman, is fishing among dissident blue-collar Democrats and finding signs of a possibly sizeable catch.

"It's strange to get booed by Democrats in Hartford and cheered by independents and Republicans in Fairfield County," says Ribicoff, who is making his fourth campaign for statewide office.

"If we don't get the workingman's vote, forget it," says a strategist for May, a Hartford insurance executive.

However widespread the disruption of traditional party lines, both sides agree Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon must sweep the state by a margin of 50,000 to 100,000 for May to win.

HHH - Nixon Even
The presidential race between Nixon and Democrat Hubert Humphrey is now rated about even in the state, with American Independent George C. Wallace expected to capture at most 10 per cent of the vote.

Polls show Ribicoff leading about 2 to 1. But they ignore the effect of Connecticut's complicated voting machines, which discourage ticket splitting.

Ribicoff's campaign hammers the theme that the 58-year-old former governor and secretary of health, education and welfare is a "courageous and independent" senator.

Implicit is Ribicoff's dressing down of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley from the rostrum of the Democratic National Convention. He accused Daley of employing what he termed Gestapo police tactics on street demonstrators.

The Chicago speech has proven the biggest boom—and bomb—to Ribicoff's campaign although he brings it up only when asked.

It won him the support of thousands of enthusiastic backers of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and aides say it also won him many liberal Republicans and independents in a state where independents outnumber both Democrats and Republicans.

Demos Distressed
But the speech distressed many blue-collar Democrats already deeply troubled about law and order, the No. 1 campaign issue in the state.

Ribicoff, 58, is known throughout the state, having attracted both strong friends and vehement enemies in 30 years as a municipal judge, state legislator, congressman, governor, secretary of health, education and welfare and now senator.

In his campaign, he ignores May's existence and stresses courage, independence and concern for the young, the down-trodden and the ill.

One poster says simply: "Abe Cares."

May, whose term in the House ended 10 years ago, uses Ribicoff's name to help establish his own identity.

"Meet the guy who's going to knock off Abe Ribicoff," goes one introduction of May. A special card asks factory workers to "compare Ed May vs. Ribicoff."

Several months ago, a poll indicated only 20 per cent of Connecticut residents recognized May's name; 96 per cent recognized Ribicoff's. The latest poll shows May now recognized by 65 per cent.

As May pounds the factories day after day, many workers tell him they can no longer support Ribicoff because he "sides with the hippies."

May, a former state GOP chairman, passes out special cards in the factories pledging a "firm stand on law and order."

The card concludes: "Down deep you know it's time for a change."

Eisenhower Reiterates Endorsement of Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower reiterated his endorsement of Richard M. Nixon for President today, describing his former vice president as the ablest candidate.

Writing Nixon from his sickbed in Walter Reed Army Medical Center, the 78-year-old general said Nixon would be "well positioned" to unite the country, deal with lawlessness and its causes, cope with Vietnam and other problems abroad and "change the ingrained power structure of the federal government (the heritage of years of Democratic rule)."

"You, better than any other political figure I have seen or heard, are equipped to do these things," Eisenhower wrote.

"I earnestly hope and believe that our fellow citizens will show that they recognize this by rolling up for you a sweeping victory next Tuesday."

Eisenhower, who is recovering from a series of heart attacks during the summer, said, "I had hoped (just before convention time) to be able to be of more help—at least to the extent of taping one or two television talks in your support."

The former President, already hospitalized from a seizure, suffered another serious attack a few hours after addressing the Republican convention in early August.

Eisenhower told Nixon he had been wise "to keep the pressure on right down to the wire" since it enhanced the prospect for a sizeable victory and a Republican Congress.

He complimented Nixon's handling of the Vietnam issue, saying, "You have stood steady and talked straight, despite what must have been heavy pressures and temptations to reach for popular support through irresponsibility."

Czech Students on March As Leaders Back Soviets

PRAGUE (AP) — Several hundred Czechoslovak students shouting "better dead than shame" marched on Prague Castle today as President Ludvik Svoboda was presiding at a celebration of the 50th anniversary of Czechoslovakia's independence.

Police hastily formed and blocked the students while the gates to the palace courtyard were padlocked.

Several times the crowd, which included many girls, rushed against the police lines but they held.

There had been concern among the leaders of Czechoslovakia's Communist party that students and others might use the anniversary to demonstrate against Soviet occupation of their country and that this would provoke reaction from the Russians. The leaders went to great lengths to make clear that demonstrations might bring Soviet tanks back into the capital.

Soviet radio cars drove through the streets of Prague on the lookout for trouble. Russian plainclothes detectives were also about. A Czechoslovak policeman with a hand radio was stationed at the East German Embassy, which was not closed for the anniversary celebration.

Inside the castle, President Ludvik Svoboda told the country's leaders: "We are commemorating the 50th anniversary of the foundation of the independent Czechoslovak state in a situation that is not easy."

Bunker, Thieu Huddle 8th Time in 13 Days

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and President Nguyen Van Thieu met today for the eighth time in 13 days, presumably to discuss American peace proposals to North Vietnam.

The meeting at the presidential palace lasted about 45 minutes. A spokesman said another session was scheduled later today. There was no comment on what was discussed.

Prime Minister Tran Van Huong of South Vietnam said in remarks reported to day by the Vietnam press agency, the "main obstacle" to peace was a North Vietnamese demand that representatives of the National Liberation Front (NLF) be included in negotiations.

Huong said the Saigon government's position is that the NLF is "only a tool of Communist North Vietnam."

"The NLF can appear at the conference table only as an element of the North Vietnamese delegation," Huong said.

Ton That Thien, the South Vietnamese information minister, echoed Huong's viewpoint.

"If we sit in Paris, there will be three delegations — from South Vietnam, Hanoi and the United States—and no NLF as a separate delegation," Thien said.

"If Hanoi wants to pick anyone from the NLF as the number one, number two or number three man in their delegation, it's none of our business. But they will have to speak as representatives of Hanoi."

Unconfirmed reports have said American and North Vietnamese diplomats have been discussing terms of an American proposal that would expand the current Paris talks to include NLF and South Vietnamese representatives.

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin said today Vietnam talks "have reached a very complicated stage." He asked the Japanese government to do all it can to persuade the United States to call an unconditional halt in U. S. bombing.

Kosygin's statements were released by Japanese sources in Moscow following a 90-minute conversation between Kosygin and Japanese Transport Minister Yohiro Nakasone who had asked the Soviet leader to use his good offices towards peace in Vietnam.

Reds Step Up Activity Around Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—The Communists have stepped up activity around Saigon and allied forces killed at least 200 of them in weekend battling, military spokesmen said today.

Military officials said the Communists may be planning a dramatic strike against the capital to coincide with South Vietnam's Nov. 1 independence day holiday.

In the latest heavy fighting, U.S. Army 9th Infantry Division troops killed 31 guerrillas Sunday 15 miles south of Saigon. South Vietnamese troops killed another 32 about 24 miles to the north.

Among smaller actions South Vietnamese troops killed seven guerrillas today on a river below Saigon where the Communists were caught trying to run boatloads of smuggled Russian rifles. The allied troops seized the weapons.

These and other actions reflected the resurgence of guerrilla activity near Saigon which had been in a recent comparative lull. In Washington, U.S. intelligence warned of a possible major Red drive, but the officials here said they felt the Communists were still unprepared for such a strike.

U.S. aircraft struck the Communists supply lines in South Vietnam. Over North Vietnam, Sunday, U.S. jets flew 125 missions against the main supply routes running along the southern panhandle.

Communist gunfire downed an Air Force F105 Thunderchief during one of the missions. The plane fell near Dong Hoi, just above the South Vietnam border. The pilot was listed as missing. It was the 913th U.S. plane lost in 50 months of bombing, according to unofficial records.

In the Saigon area fighting, two Americans suffered wounds Sunday as the 9th Division helicopter-borne force struck the guerrillas in a two-hour battle.

Today, in the Gia Dinh suburb of Saigon, a Communist terrorist hurled a two-pound explosive charge into the home of a battleship New Jersey. Hanoi radio said the ship suffered a "damaging blow" Saturday while firing off the southern tip of North Vietnam. The U.S. spokesmen said that 10 to 12 Red coastal artillery shells fell 500 yards short of the big ship.

U.S. officials today denied North Vietnamese claims that Hanoi's coastal gunners had scored direct hits on the MOSCOW (UPI)—Russia brought back from space today the unmanned half of its two-vehicle space probe, Cosmonaut Georgy Beregovoi continued to ride his Soyuz 3 space ship in orbit around the earth, Tass said.

The Soviet news agency said Soyuz 2, an unmanned space capsule which preceded Beregovoi's capsule into space, made a "soft landing" using a parachute. It landed in the Soviet Union.

The agency said Beregovoi, 47-year-old war hero, continued his flight in the two-room Soyuz 3 into its third day. Sunday Beregovoi had made a series of approaches to the unmanned sister vehicle in what a Soviet scientist said were experiments to develop docking systems of spacecraft in orbit.
